REDMOND ELECTED MANAGER.

Will Have Charge of the Football Team for 1901.

At a meeting of the board of managers of the University athletic association held in Villard hall, Friday noon, C. A. Redmond, '02, was elected as manager of the football team for the season of 1901. Mr. Redmond is well known throughout intercollegiate athletic circles, and with his excellent executive ability the U. O. is assured another year of successful management of its football affairs.

At this meeting the report of Manager Goodrich of the football team for 1900 was submitted and accepted. The report showed the expenses to have been $2469.80 and the receipts $2404.50, leaving a deficit of $65.30. The report of C. N. McArthur, manager of last spring's track team was read before the board. The receipts for the season were $619.50 and the expenditure $619.35, leaving a balance of fifteen cents in the treasury.

The total expenditure for student athletic purposes at the University for the year 1900 amounted to $3089.30.

At this meeting Fred Edwards, '01, was selected, as manager of the U. O. indoor base ball nine. The base-ball boys are practicing daily and expect to secure a series of games with the Salem Athletic Club and the Multnomah and Y. M. C. A. at Portland.

Prof Washburn's Lecture.

Prof. W. L. Washburn, of the department of Biology, gave an interesting talk before the Philalogian society, Friday night, on the "Similarity in Structure Between Man and the Ape." The lecture was illustrated by numerous stereoptical views and the subject was presented in a most entertaining manner. The ordinary conception of the term evolution is that man descended from monkey, but from Darwin's wonderful discoveries on the "Origin of Species," and from the illustrations presented by Prof. Washburn, the similarity in structure of all forms of animal life we have to draw the conclusion that the monkey is but a distant cousin of man and that all species once sprung from a common ancestry.

Robert Rae, '04, was compelled to drop his work in the University on account of asthma trouble. He expects to go to Southern California.

Eutaxian Entertain.

The party given by the Eutaxian society Saturday evening was a very enjoyable event in the social life of the college year, and the young ladies may justly feel proud at the manner in which they entertained the guests. Although 1901 is not a leap year, the Eutaxians decided to observe it as such and accordingly called for their gentleman friends and escorted them to the party. The spacious halls of the literary societies were tastefully decorated for the occasion, there being a profusion of evergreens tied with college colors.

Each gentleman was compelled to "fish" for a partner, after which progressive games of various sorts were engaged in. About eleven o'clock, delicious refreshments were served, after which the merry throng disbanded. The Eutaxians are royal entertainers, as the many social affairs which they have undertaken have proved. The leap year part of the program caused much merriment among the students during the week and the idea of playing girl just for once, showed the fellows how to appreciate college life from a co-ed's standpoint. The girls acted as gallant escorts, some of them even going so far as to send flowers to the young man whom they were to call for. The Eutaxians deserve congratulations for the success of their undertaking.

Student Managers.

Down at Stanford, they are having troubles all of their own. A large number of the most prominent students were found deficient in the recent examinations and were dropped from the University. Among them were several prominent athletes and several student managers, including those of track athletics and football. This is a strong argument in favor of graduate management. The burden of responsibility of the larger student body enterprises is too great for men who are carrying regular class room work and too much is expected of them. At the University of California, there is a salaried graduate manager and the management of all important student affairs is in his hands. The result is that the business is carried on thoroughly and systematically. At Stanford, a graduate treasurer is employed, but the faculty requires him to carry regular class room work and he can be of little assistance to the various managers. The Stanford method would probably be as good as the first mentioned, could the treasurer devote all his time to management, but the faculty compels him to carry class work and the consequence is that student affairs are poorly managed and the regular managers are "flunked."

Executive Committee Meeting.

At a meeting of the Executive committee last Friday, the resignation of Miss Susie Bannard as Vice-Pres. of the Associated Students was presented and accepted in accordance with the Constitution, which does not allow contestants in the local oratorical contest to hold office. Arthur J. Gamber, '02, was elected to the vacancy.

AN INTERESTING LECTURE.

Dr T. W. Williamson Addressed the Biological Students.

The third of the series of lectures arranged for by Dr. Strong, was delivered Tuesday evening, in Professor Schmidt's room, the speaker being Dr. W. T. Williamson, of Salem. His subject was "Heredity and Environment."

Dr. Williamson has been connected with the state asylum for many years, and therefore spoke from a wide experience. He took up the question of Heredity and entered into a very thorough discussion of it, showing the traits of character that are transmitted from generation to generation. He showed the influences of environments and compared them with the inherited tendencies.

He made an accurate presentation of the relation of the brain to the body, showing how the mind of man is developed. As the speaker has been brought into close contact with many types of insanity, he made special mention of this disease, showing the influences of heredity and environment upon the cases that have been scientifically dealt with.

The address was intensely interesting especially to students of the department of Biology.

University Appropriation

Representative Harris has introduced a bill into the Oregon legislature which makes provision for a three-fifths mill tax, to be used in supporting the state University. This, in ordinary years, will bring from $48,000, to $50,000. If the bill is passed, the present annual appropriation of $30,000 will be done away with. Representative Harris is a graduate of the U. O. and will do all in his power to aid his Alma Mater.

There is a very friendly feeling among the legislators toward the University and it is quite likely that the bill will pass.

To Observe Marshall Day.

Through the efforts of the U. O. Seminary of history and political science, the university is preparing to observe February 4 as Marshall day, in honor of the chief justice, who did so much by his constitutional decisions to place the United States government on a strong national basis. An invitation has been extended to Hon. Geo. H. Williams, of Portland, to deliver an address before the students on Marshall and his work.

Some hoodlums attacked Mr. Oscar Gorrell near the dormitory Saturday evening and attempted to take away a bucket of hot cocoa, which he was carrying over to the Eutaxian party. The rowdies failed to accomplish their purpose, but succeeded in spilling the contents of the bucket on Mr. Gorrell's dress suit, staining it badly. It is rumored that some of the would-be grafters were recognized. They should be made to pay for the clothes.

Senior Class.

There will be a meeting of the class of 1901 Tuesday, January 22, at 11:50 o'clock. Important business.
