The local oratorical contest is scheduled for Feb. 8.

Dr. T. W. Williamson, of Salem, was the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Strong, during his visit in Eugene.

At a meeting of the Chemical Society Tuesday, R. R. Renshaw discussed The Manufacture and Possibilities of Liquid Air.

Chas. Redmond attended a meeting of the Executive committee of the state Oratorical association, at Albany Tuesday evening.

Colonel L. L. Hawkins, of Portland, spent Tuesday at the University, inspecting the Biological laboratory and the Condon cabinet. Colonel Hawkins is curator of the museum in the city hall at Portland.

Rev. W. S. Holt will address the students at Assembly Wednesday morning on "The Present Crisis in China." Rev. Holt spent a number of years in China in the missionary service of the Presbyterian church and is thoroughly familiar with the country and its people.

The local chapter of the Sigma Nu fraternity has elected the following officers: Commander, L. L. Goodrich; lieutenant commander, E. N. Blythe; reporter, C. N. McArthur; treasurer, C. C. McCornack; recorder, Chas. Redmond; marshal, Fred J. Ziegler; sentinel, Clyde A. Payne.

The Assembly Skippers Brigade must have been initiating a candidate into the mysterious realms of their order last Wednesday morning, for the sounds that came from the corridors of Villard Hall indicated joy and mirth galore. The Brigade will hold its annual election next Wednesday morning.

The Goodrich brothers are the society swells of the college. We note the following in the columns of the Register of the 17th inst: "Light luncheon was served at the tete-a-tete tables over which Messrs. Luke and Ray Goodrich graciously presided." The event was an evening party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Logan.

At assembly Wednesday morning the students were addressed by Rev. Lindsay, the evangelist of the Christian church and by Dr. Williamson, a member of the medical staff of the state insane asylum at Salem. Both gentlemen were pleasant talkers and the students appreciated their remarks.

At the meeting of the Seminary of history and political science, Wednesday night Ansel Hemenway, '02, read a review of late magazine articles on the Trust question, and Mr. Schaler of the department of history presented a paper on the Virginia Resolutions which were submitted to the constitutional convention of 1787. By the paper, Mr. Schafer showed that the general plan of the constitution as it now stands emanated from the creative mind of James Madison.

Lecture on China.

At the time of the regular assembly Wednesday morning the students will be addressed by Evangelist Holt, who will lecture on China. Mr. Holt has recently returned from the Celestial Empire, where he has been doing missionary work, and being well acquainted with the situation and condition of affairs in the Far East, his lecture will be of exceptional interest to all students who care to acquaint themselves with current history.

Passing Judgment

The Photograph obtains merit from its resemblance to the original. It must represent the individual at his best. This requires art, and since the demand in recent years is for artistic effects, our efforts are constantly directed to that end.
