Dean Wright of Yale reports that the boys who live luxuriously do not make a good showing in scholarship. During a period of three years, three times as many disciplinary warnings have been sent to young men who live in expensive private dormitories as to the students living in the rooms on the campus. The old tradition that frugal habits make good thinking has never been unsettled by facts. Still, a rich boy need not be discouraged from going to college. It is possible to study at a three hundred dollar mahogany desk.

The literary societies did not hold regular meetings last Saturday, but each one met and adjourned in a body to the debate tryout, to cheer their representatives in that contest.

The basketball team will be given a reception at Spokane while on the Washington trip by Miss Catherine L. Byrne, daughter of Dr. Byrne, mayor of Spokane.

Dr. Sheldon will address the Fort-nightly club next Saturday evening on "The Materialism of the Novels of Thomas Hardy."

The Weekly will contain some baseball news next week.

The warm sunny days of Spring are welcome.
