SENIOR PLAY ON THURSDAY

Management and Professor Glen Are Working Hard to Make the Play a Great Social Event.

The class of 1908 have attempted an innovation in putting on Sheridan's "The Rivals," for its "class play." It is strictly a comedy; the kind that Joseph Jefferson made a success of. The scene is at Bath, England, and the time of the occurrence is about 1775. Heretofore the class plays have been more or less classical. This year the classical has been avoided.

Professor Glen picked the cast and he has drilled the members. Mr. Ramp, Mr. Kincaid and Miss Van Waters need no advertising as to their ability to handle the heavy parts with success. The management has procured the costumes in Portland and will spare no expense in making the "Senior Play" one of the social events of the college year. Following is the cast of characters:

Sir Antony Absolute, Webster Kincaid
Capt. Jack Absolute Lloyd Mott
Faulkland P. G. Bond
Bob Acres Floyd Ramp
Sir Lucius O'Trigger, Ben. Huntington
Fag William Neal
David William Dill
Thomas R. D. McCarty
Mrs. Malaprop Miss Van Waters
Lydia Languish Miss Bryant
Julia Miss Van Duyn
Lucy Miss Robinson

The basketball team will play its last game for the season at the armory on Friday, Feb. 28, against a team from Muscatine, Iowa. This team, a Y. M. C. A. aggregation, in a recent tour of the East, won seventy-five out of eighty games. It is reputed to be superior to the Chicago Crescent team which recently toured the West. It beat Swan's Nome aggregation. The team has been together for four years. They have been coached by Applegate, now Y. M. C. A. physical director at Walla Walla. The Muscatine men wear skull caps while playing, presumably to make it harder for their opponents to distinguish one from another. The local team is practicing hard in the hope of making a glorious ending to the best season that Oregon has ever known.

The Itinerant Greengrocer—Only bananas, ma-am. —London Sketch.

The following is a copy of the new Yale song which won the prize of $300 offered by John O. Heald for the best original Yale song. The words are by W. B. Hooker, and Seth D. Bingham composed the music. The name of the piece is "Mother of Men":

Mother of Men, grown strong in giving

Honor to them thy lights have led—

Rich in the toil of thousands living,

Proud of the deeds of thousands dead

We who have left thy power, and know

thee,

We in whose work thy gifts avail—

High in our hearts enshrined enthrone

thee,

Mother of Men—Old Yale!

Spirit of Youth, alive, unchanging,

Under whose feet the years are cast,

Heir to an empire, ranging

Over the future and the past—

Thee, whom our fathers loved before us,

Thee, whom our sons unborn shall hail,

Praise we today in sturdy chorus,

Mother of Men—Old Yale!

There was a young girl from "The Hague."

Who suffered from Bubonic plague,

The cause we declare

Was the rat in her hair.

But don't ignore fashion we beg.

—St. Helen's Hall Spinster.
