Pleasant Time at Corvallis.

On their trip to Monmouth, the Oregon delegation had the pleasure of spending several hours between trains visiting O. A. C. At the hands of the Moore brothers and their friends the delegates were given royal treatment. They visited the various buildings, and departments of the college, were much impressed with the thorough equipment and practical results accomplished in the various lines of work. To conclude their round of pleasure the delegates had the explicit pleasure of witnessing the spectacular scene on the campus of drill review of a regiment of the college men in their uniforms, lead by their excellent brass band. The delegates consider themselves fortunate indeed to have had this opportunity of visiting O. A. C. and highly appreciate the hospitable treatment at the hands of their friends and the college during their short stay.

A Mistake.

An utterly unwarranted impression seems to have obtained, somehow, among the freshman engineers, that their presence is not thoroughly welcomed at the meetings of the Engineering Club. This is wholly wrong. It was deemed wise, at the time the club was formed, to make sophomore standing a prerequisite for membership, it being assumed that a man who returned for the second year would, in all probability, stay for the completion of his course. This requirement was not intended to convey any reflection upon freshmen and the club wishes to take this opportunity to offer the most cordial invitation to all freshmen to attend its meetings. The club is thoroughly democratic and welcomes all visitors.

Forrest Smithson, the Oregon sprinter has within the past few days established three new world's records, in the 50, 60, and 70 yard hurdles.
