Philologist Society.

A good number of the Philologists met last Saturday evening and held a meeting. The regular program was suspended in order to let the Freshmen team get some practice in preparation for their Laorean opponents. One feature of the regular program, however, was a prepared address. Mr. Deva took a religious subject, "Did Christ come into the world to save sinners?" The speaker being a native of India naturally has different ideas on this subject from Americans. He said, among other things, that we were too dependent in spiritual matters, that we were ready to accept the easiest solution of our salvation, that Christ's coming into the world to save sinners was such an easy solution, therefore we accepted it.

Mrs. Straub and Mrs. Stafford entertained Wednesday and Thursday afternoons of last week at the home of Mrs. Stafford on Eleventh St. Each afternoon about twenty-five ladies were present who spent a very pleasant afternoon in needle work and conversation. The house was very prettily decorated in cut flowers. In the dining room a delicious luncheon was served by the hostesses, assisted by Miss Edith Woodcock, Miss Constance Covell, and Miss Helen Beach.

Wednesday afternoon Miss Miriam Van Waters entertained a few of her friends in honor of Miss Alice McCormac, of Marshfield, who was visiting her. The affair was very informal but every one enjoyed meeting again Miss McCormac, who was in college two years ago and who is an ex-member of the Junior class.

The new Y. M. C. A. cabinet met Sunday afternoon with the advisory board to make plans for the coming year's work. A most successful year is anticipated. All the new officers are enthusiastic and prospects are excellent.

The condition of all departments warrants expansion during the coming year.

Mrs. Catherine Warde Pope of the University School of Music is planning to give a recital in the near future. The date of the recital has not yet been announced.

Mrs. Clarke, of Portland, arrived in Eugene last week and she will remain here until college is out.
