INTERCOLLEGIATE ATHLETICS

The Columbia University faculty has decided that the rules which bar students from participating in athletics when they are delinquent in classes, shall not be enforced until 1910. If the ruling were now enforced 70 per cent of the athletes of Columbia would be ruled out for insufficient preparation.

Interfraternity and dormitory baseball games are now very popular at many of the larger colleges.

Students at Amherst college believe that Summer baseball should be allowed. After two nights discussion on the proposition by athletic managers, captains and coaches two hundred and seventy-eight voted for and sixty-five against summer baseball.

Dartmouth College will award football emblems of gold to the members of the football team which defeated Harvard. The score will be engraved on the back.

Gordon B. Frost who has been coaching the Whitman college baseball men, has resigned and left Walla Walla for San Francisco.

It is possible that the University of Washington will land Glaze—once famous as an all-American end—to coach the football team next fall.

Junior day will probably be changed this year to May 22 in order to coincide with the date of the O. A. C. track-meet.
