

OREGON ALUMNAE ACTIVE

In Positions Which They Occupy All Over the United States—Many Women Graduates

The roll of graduates of the University numbers about 508. It is a roll of which the students are proud, and they feel that these graduates have left behind them an inheritance of worthy thought, and a high college standard; that they have proved by their work since their graduation the worth and value of an education at Oregon.

In this steadily increasing number of graduates, about 198, or 39 per cent are women, and these are among the women who have accomplished the most for the state of Oregon, in various lines of work.

Forty-two per cent of the women graduates, about 84 in number, are filling "woman's proper sphere" as wives and mothers in the home. There are fifty teachers among the alumnae, most of whom are recent graduates, and doing efficient work in the state of Oregon.

Ten or more of the women graduates have continued their educational work in Eastern colleges, and Oregon has been well represented at Columbia, Bryn Mawr, and Wellesley. Four Oregon girls, Florence DeBar '06; Camille Carroll, '06;

Norma Hendricks, '06; and Vanda Coffey, '05, are studying at Wellesley this year. Miss Mabel Eaton, '05, is a student in Boston at Simmons College.

Not a very large proportion of the Oregon women have entered the business world. Several have taken up newspaper work, some are stenographers, two are nurses, two are horticulturists, and some others have entered various lines of business, but the proportion is surprisingly small.

Seven of the alumnae have been or are members of the faculty of the University. At the present time, Miss Bertha Slater, '99; Miss Mary Kent, '06; Miss Mabel Cooper, '07, and Miss Angeline Williams, '07, are assistants in the departments of English, Biology and English Literature.

Four women who have taken their degrees at Oregon have found their work on the Mission field. Two, Mrs. Willa Hanna Beattie, '95; and Miss Katherine Hanna, '96, have worked among the Indians in Alaska and Northern Washington. Miss Victoria Mitchell, '06, sailed for India soon after her graduation and is at work there. Mrs. Elizabeth Logan Ennis, '02, went with her husband to Portuguese West Africa in 1907.

Six or more are deceased, and the remaining number of Oregon's alumnae are at home, or engaged in various occupations and pursuits.

From the very beginning of the University of Oregon, the women have taken an active part in its enterprises. There was one woman in the first graduating class of 1878; that was Mrs. Ellen Condon McCornack, daughter and able assistant of the honored Dr. Thomas Condon.

Three women have been president of the Alumni Association; they are Mrs. Nettie McCornack Collier, Miss Anne Whitaker and Mrs. Julia Veazie Glen. Seven have won the Failing prize for oratory, and the Beekman prize has been awarded to eight.

Thus it is apparent that the women of the University have taken an important place in the college activities, and have had their part not only in building up the institution, but also in making honored the alumni of their Alma Mater.

The two games of last week will close the season for Oregon. The batting averages compiled from the official score book are as follows:

Hathaway, .414; Coleman, .360; Henkel, .350; Ramp, .285; Clarke, .258; Houston, .257; Kestley, .236; Paine, .184; Hurd, .180; Taylor, .090; Clifford, .041. The team as a whole averaged .237.

Miss Grace Parker is visiting in Portland.

"AGRICS" WIN CHAMPIONSHIP

By Winning Two More Games From the Varsity Nine—Scores 16-2; 5-4.

Two more games won by O. A. C. last week from the Oregon nine gives the "Agric" team a clear title to the state championship and a good claim on the college baseball championship of the Northwest. The Corvallis team can now proudly boast of defeating the Varsity team which can now proudly boast of defeating the Varsity team which has not met defeat in a game with any other institution this season.

Friday afternoon's game was a good deal of a farce after the sixth inning when the Oregon players tossed the ball around the diamond like youngsters. Hurd had an off day and was replaced in the seventh inning by Clifford, who also had an off day. Players on the team, however, assert stoutly that neither pitcher can be blamed for the big final score of 16 to 2 in favor of Oregon Agricultural College.

On Saturday the second game of the series was played with Henkle in the box for Oregon. Although the Oregon men got thirteen hits and their agricultural opponents got but six, the final score was O. A. C., 5; Oregon, 4.

This game was really a fast, clean exhibition of baseball and was a worthy showing for both teams.

The results of the season show very clearly that the Oregon team needs a coach who has nothing else to do but spend his time working with the team. The $200 spent by O. A. C. for Joe Fay, their snappy little director has brought them the championship.

Individually no one questions the fact that the Oregon men are stronger and better players than the men of the Agric team. For team work and cleverness the coaching of Fay has brought the Corvallisites into a state considerably above that yet achieved by the Varsity.
