Commonwealth Day

Commonwealth Day is the name of a proposed institution that may be given a place in the calendar of the University of Oregon. It is different from anything at present in vogue in any college or university in the United States and is adapted to meet special needs in Oregon. The plan is to set aside a day or a week-end when all of the public men of the state will be the guests of the University. Not only legislators, but editors and all other men who serve in a public capacity would be included in the invitation. The idea in gathering them together would be mainly to make them aware of the services which the University is able and willing to render for them. The date would be some time in the early summer not long before the close of the college year. A program would probably be given, consisting of addresses and demonstrations, but the chief benefit would come from the personal knowledge of the working of the University gained by the visitors from observation.

The idea originated with Prof. F. G. Young.
