Alumni Will Give Dance

Thanksgiving evening in Portland will be celebrated in Portland by a grand ball given by the alumni of the University of Oregon. The ball will be held in the Masonic Temple and will be open to all students and alumni of the University. A charge of two dollars per couple will be made to defray expenses.

The Oregon football team will be asked to lead the grand march. The entire affair will be a strictly University function, as it has been in the past.

Registrar Tiffany has received a letter from the committee on arrangements stating that the attendance of students is most earnestly desired. This ball has long been under consideration, and is one of the plans of C. N. McArthur, '01, to make enjoyable the occasion of the annual Multnomah game. Further particulars will be given during the week by the Portland daily papers.

C. L. WHEALDON, ex-'10

Who is Making Good at University of Michigan

Yale has a thousand men enrolled in student Bible classes, about the same per cent of the total attendance as the number enrolled at the University of Oregon.

The Cornell faculty has forbidden summer baseball.

At Beloit, the four classes live in separate houses, the most popular girl in each class being elected as "squelcher."

Push ball has been introduced at Drake University.

Multnomah Club expects a game with Notre Dame on New Year's day.

Sam May, ex-'11, took second place in a fall tryout for the half mile at Yale recently. His successful opponent was an experienced track man.

"Chuck" Taylor, ex-'11, was deprived of his chance to make the freshman team at Cornell, by an accident which resulted in a broken collar bone.
