Voigt Will do Stunts

Victor Voigt, '10, is a new stunt man who will make his initial bow before the public at the glee club concert on December 4. Voigt is said to be a wonder, and his friends are all wondering why they did not find it out before. His line is French-Canadian dialect. Having spent a great part of his life in the constant hearing of the peculiar patois of the Canadian-Frenchman, Voigt is able to give his audience the real thing and no "base imitation." Voigt and Van Dusen will appear in an Italian dialogue.

A comical quartette, composed of Cooper, Nelson, Wood and Burke, will afford much amusement and will relieve the heavier features of the concert.

At the University of Glasgow, Scotland, a "Censor of Morals" has been appointed to put a stop to the "disgraceful flirting" of co-eds. The censor position has been completely boycotted by the students.

The Washingtonian is a new student monthly at Washington.

Prize Awarded

Miss Blanche Huston and Miss Agnes Beach tied for first place in the award of the prize in the yell contest. Each received five dollars. The winning yells will be publicly used for the first time against O. A. C. on Saturday.

Both of the winning contestants are seniors. Several other meritorious yells were submitted, some of them being by girls.

The Washington Tye, the junior annual, is to be run on a cash basis this year, by means of selling in advance tickets entitling the purchasers to annuals at a slightly reduced rate.

Tickets for the O. A. C. game have been reserved as far south as Roseburg and as far east as La Grande.

Big games for Saturday, the twenty-first, are between Harvard and Yale, and Oregon and O. A. C.

Four hundred reserved tickets to the O. A. C. game were sold to University students at the Registrar's office this week. A large sale at Linn's drug store was made to town people.

Students and others with reserved seat tickets to the O. A. C. game should present them at the Twentieth Street entrance to Multnomah Field as they will not be received at the other
