Survey Hydraulic Project

P. W. Reid and R. U. Steelquist, seniors in the department of electrical engineering, made a trip last week to Wendling to survey a hydraulic project. The results of the trip will be used in the theses of the two gentlemen. An interesting feature of the trip was a ride on the Wendling branch of the Southern Pacific, which, upon this occasion, travelled eighteen miles in three hours, doing one stretch of four miles in the space of one hour and thirty minutes. Other trips are in prospect during the year to gain practical knowledge for thesis work in addition to the theory derived from study at the University.

The Washington Wave, although called a daily, really appears four times a week, being published every college day except Monday.

Oliver B. Huston, editor of the Oregoniana, has chosen Benj. H. Williams as associate editor, and will announce the rest of his staff in a short time.

Thanksgiving Dinners

The past week was a gay one for those students who remained in Eugene as well as for those who visited at home or in Portland.

The festivities in Eugene took the form for the most part of jolly Thanksgiving dinners, where the festive board groaned with the weight of the good things to eat, and the diners were rejoiced to hear over their dessert that Oregon had won from Multnomah.

The girls of the Mary Spiller House and the Tau Pi sorority were the guests of the matron of the Dormitory.

Those members of the Kloshe Tillacum who remained in town enjoyed a novel feast consisting of wild fowl procured by some enterprising seniors who themselves occupied the seats of honor.

"Facts" Creates Sensation.

Men of the Dormitory were startled on Sunday morning by the appearance on the bulletin boards of the second and third floors of an anonymous publication, entitled "Facts," and purporting to be the "official organ of the Dormitory knockers." It consists of a series of "knocklets" which in a sarcastic way, make many complaints and insinuations. The subjects for criticism are matters of purely Dormitory interest, but the method of discussion and publication is so unusual that curiosity is rife as the editorship of the sheet. The paper states that copies will be mailed on application to "Willie Morrison."

"Who is Willie Morrison?" is a question of as great interest to Dorm men as the traditional: "Who struck Billie Patterson?"

Plans for Oregoniana.

Oregoniana, the book of class 1910, will outshine all previous publications of that nature, according to those who are planning for it.

Carey V. Loosley, business manager, has chosen as assistant Norwood R. Charman. He has the details of the managing end all mapped out. It is his intention to sell the book at a somewhat less price than was asked for the 1909 Beaver. The Oregoniana will probably be bound in cloth instead of leather. Libraries give more care to cloth-bound books than to those bound in leather, so a cloth-bound class book is sure of better treatment than one bound in leather.
