PROF. GLEN AND GLEE CLUB ON TOUR

Singers, Mandolin Players and Stuntsters Score Tremendous Success at Salem, Portland and in Eastern Oregon

Professor Glen and the Glee Club are having the most successful tour in the history of the organization. Prospects for a small surplus at the close of the trip are bright. Manager Chessman's "circus bills" are bringing out the crowds and the fellows are making good his promises. The club will disband in The Dalles on Tuesday night, the members going straight to their homes in time for turkey.

Salem the First Stop

Salem, Dec. 15—(Special to the Oregon Weekly)

Salem High in a body occupied the entire balcony at the concert of the Oregon Combined Glee and Mandolin Club tonight. Oregon alumni sat in the boxes. The concert was much better than the one given last year, and pleased the crowd which came to hear it in spite of the cold, wet weather. The attendance, while not capacity, was much better than last year. Voigt, as a French Canadian, and the "Jolly Jail Birds Quartette" were the biggest hits. The club sang at the High School at 3:30 this afternoon and was received with enthusiasm. There was no reception. The club will leave for Portland at 8:40 tomorrow morning.

Portland People Pleased

Portland, Dec. 16—(Special to Oregon Weekly)—Nelson, Cooper, Wood and Burke, in their clever "jailbird" stunt, were encored seven times at the Heilig this evening and still the large college audience was not satisfied. Voigt came back four times in his "Canuck" monologue, and the delighted Port-landers still called for more. The clever take-off on the discontinuance of the Multnomah game took with everyone except Mr. Arthur Greene of the Oregonian, and his fellow club men. Professor Glen was given a tremendous ovation by parquet and gallery alike. Even the final number was encored. The club will leave at 9:15 tomorrow morning on its way to Eastern Oregon.

Wood Makes Speech

Hood River, Dec. 17—(Special to Oregon Weekly)—The concert tonight was well attended but had the disadvantage of appearing just after two shows. A dance is in progress in honor of the college men, and will probably not terminate until nearly train time, which is 2:50 a. m. The college singers and their director have taken Pendleton by storm and nothing is too good for them.

Sunday at Baker City

Baker City, Dec. 19—(Special to Oregon Weekly)—

Professor Glen of the University of Oregon and his fine band of Glee Club singers took well with a large audience of high school students, citizens and college alumni at its annual concert tonight. The stuntsters were most popular with the audience, which laughed itself into convulsions over the male ballet dancers led by Virgil Cooper of this city. The mandolin club and its catchy music were a revelation to local music lovers. A reception followed the program. The club will spend Sunday in Baker, and many will indulge in ice-skating to which they are not accustomed in the Willamette Valley.

At La Grande Monday

La Grande, Dec. 21; 3:30 p. m.—(Special to Oregon Weekly)—The Oregon Glee Club will appear at Stewart's Opera House this evening. The club visited the high school and sang there this afternoon. It is not expected that any "O. A. C. Champions" banner will appear on the stage tonight. The club goes from here to The Dalles.

Three Staunch Friends of the University of Oregon, Well Known to Students

gon Weekly)—J. LeRoy Wood of the Oregon Glee Club addressed the High School here at two-thirty this afternoon. He was introduced by C. E. Coad, Oregon, '04. The Glee Club sang for the school. The entertainment this evening was well attended. Students and townspeople alike roared in merriment at the clever stunts. Professor Geisler and his recalcitrant pupil "Ickie" received their share of applause.

Dance and Snow at Pendleton

Pendleton, Dec. 18—(Special to Oregon Weekly)—Two inches of snow and a cold wind met the Glee Club as
