Students are Scattered

Practically all of the students and many of the faculty have left Eugene for the Christmas season. Some have gone to their homes in various parts of the state, others are visiting with out-of-town friends. Some students are lingering for a few days to make up work that is in arrears, after which they will seek the paternal fireside. A few will remain here during the entire vacation. These are scattered throughout town, but will doubtless get together for many charming social affairs during the next two weeks. As an instance of how totally the college community is depopulated by the annual Christmas exodus, it may be noted that only one student remains at the Zeta House, two at Mary Spiller Hall, two at Kloshe Tillacum Lodge, one at the Tau Pi house, none at all at the Beta Epsilon house, ten or twelve at the Men's Dormitory, three at the Kappa Sigma house, and like inconsiderable numbers at the other living-places.

P. U. Girls Want Debate.

Feeling that the present college league for women is too cumbersome, Pacific University wishes to arrange for but one debate for women, and that with the University of Oregon. That it the substance of a letter received here last week, which has been referred for consideration to the Eutaxian Society, which, under the advice of Mr. S. E. Eliot, the debate coach, is considering the advisability of arranging the debate with the women of other universities or colleges.

Freshmen Make Final Decision.

For the third time the question of admission or exclusion of outsiders from the Freshman Glee was considered at a meeting called for the purpose on Thursday afternoon. The vote was heavily in favor of limiting attendance to students, ex-students, alumni and faculty of the University.

College Dance in Portland

Ringler's Hall in Portland will be the scene of a lively intercollegiate dancing party on New Year's eve. The management has appointed representatives from University of Washington, University of Oregon, Oregon Agricultural College, W. S. C., and Stanford. Only college people will be in attendance.
