Mr. Whittlesey Explains

Walter L. Whittlesey, '01, at present in the Department of History, Politics and Economics at Princeton, writes to the Oregon Weekly, taking exceptions to an item in the Weekly for Jan. 4, which read:

"Princeton freshmen must march to meals in lockstep."

This statement Mr. Whittlesey would qualify as follows: "Only until the freshman-sophomore baseball game (first Saturday in October) and during the week before Washington's birthday, and then only on the campus. No 'horsing' allowed any other time of year, and none allowed on the streets or in the vicinity of the campus."

Alton Chosen Manager

R. M. Alton was elected manager of the freshman track team at the meeting of his class last Wednesday. The other candidates were Flegel and Clark.

Alton had experience along managerial lines at Shattuck Military Academy, on account of which, although a freshman manager is not allowed much chance for individuality by the main department, he at least will be competent to water the track in a systematic and businesslike manner.

Soph Finances in Good Shape

Sophomores had class meeting last Wednesday at which a treasury report was read. The Treasurer was authorized to take whatever steps he thought necessary in order to make collections which are necessary to wind up the affairs of the class. A report was read by the chairman of the executive committee which showed the total cost of the recent class dance to have been $69.75. Most of this has been paid.

Freshmen Choose Captain

Ed. Davis was unanimously elected captain of the freshman relay team at a meeting of his classmates who are trying for positions on said team. Davis, it will be remembered, won third place in the cross country race, earlier in the winter. He was on the Portland High School team last year, where he made a creditable showing in several meets.

Howard Harrold, '09, and Winn Nicholas, '12, were through reportorial error omitted last week in the enumeration of the members of Tawah Club.

A number of the University Bulletin to be issued in the near future will be by Professor Frederick G. Young of the department of Economics.

Varnel Beach will not return to college next semester as was expected but will remain in Arizona for the rest of the winter.
