Oregana Will be Good

"Oregana will be a real Junior Annual," said a member of the staff of that publication the other day. "This talk about jokes being scarce is true enough but what we have are good and there are more coming. The literary department will leave nothing to be desired. None of your prosy conventional platitudes there but live college wit and wisdom.

"Some of the cuts have arrived. They are very good indeed. Of course it is not possible or desirable to run such a publication on exactly the same lines as a magazine or to judge all contributions by the standard of the English department, but any departures from the beaten path will justify themselves.

"The department of humor will be screamingly funny. Age, color or previous condition of dignity will not keep any one's name out of this section and he may deem himself fortunate if his picture in some characteristic pose does not accompany his name.

"Advance sales have not been as good as they should be, but there is still time for students to take advantage of the reduced rate."

Preliminaries Will be Held

Preliminaries for the Failing-Beekman contest will take place May 1st, at which time six orators will be chosen to compete in the final contest.

A tryout for Junior Day orations will also be held soon. The exhibition Junior orations will take place as usual on the evening of the second Friday in May.

Class Meeting Announced

Sophomores will meet next Wednesday at 4 p. m. in Villard Hall. The auditing committee will report.

Earl Collins is visiting at the Alpha Club.

Byron Goodall, ex-'11, has left Salem, where he was working in the State House, to accept a position in a town

Theodore Holt, '08, entertained the Oregon-Utah debaters at luncheon while they were in Salt Lake. Mr. Holt is the holder of a fellowship at University of Utah.

The University office looks much like a counting room since the desks have been provided with frosted glass fences, through the windows of which Registrar A. R. Tiffany and Steward L. W. Johnson greet their visitors.

VACATION EMPLOYMENT

I have a proposition on which several students can make $40 to $100 a week this summer. Each salesman will be trained by an experienced man in the territory where the new man works. Salesmen call on business and professional men—no house-to-house-canvasing. I want high-grade men, write today for details.
