

way in which the women of Oregon can answer these questions decides their future position in the University.

We would call the attention of our readers to an editorial printed in the Eugene Guard, Tuesday, April 28th., headed "Do We Want Universities that Will Teach Plutocracy or Democracy?" The article is splendid. Its writer has a keen eye for facts and a sledge-hammer way of presenting them. We should judge he had had wide journalistic experience. The article we recommend to all friends of the University. It will be useful in argument.

The June issue of the Oregon Monthly will appear about June fifteenth. The staff will present as attractive a last number as available money will permit. John Veatch has designed a new cover, the first work done for the Monthly since his return from the Chicago School of Art. Walter Eaton will probably have one of his excellent stories. A satire on Seniors will appear from the talented pen of Earl Kilpatrick; Jennie Lilly is preparing an essay of the subject of Commencement Customs. An interesting sketch of the Monthly's history, entitled "Eleven Years of College Journalism," will be written by Ruth Hansen. One of the most novel features of the June issue, however, is to be an article by Mr. Satya Deva, a student attending the University from India. Mr. Deva has had experience as a magazine writer, and his article on his "First Night in Chicago," will be much appreciated by Monthly readers.

A list of all who have contributed articles, stories, poems, and drawings to the Monthly during the past year will be printed.

The Monthly wishes to announce that it endorses Ruth Hansen as candidate for editor-in-chief of the Oregon Monthly for the year '09. Miss Hansen's work on the present staff is well known by Monthly readers. A more able successor to the present management would be hard to find.
