

The program, under the direction of Miss Isolene Shaver, was enthusiastically received, Miss Naomi Williamson, as elocutionist, being accorded a special ovation.

Girls, if you wish to spend a vacation that is worth while from every point of view, go to the Seaside Conference next year. There you will meet and learn to know as friends, the most cultured, the noblest and withal the jolliest girls of the whole Northwest. You will come in close contact with men and women of broad minds and consecrated lives. You will come to realize what a force is the Young Women's Christian Association, and you will return home the richer for such influences, the happier for the lasting friendships that you have formed and refreshed and invigorated by ten days of mountain-climbing and surf-bathing and the bracing sea-air.

Begin now to plan to go. Let us have twenty girls at Conference next June.

— Football Prospects —

THE word "prospect," as applied to any sport, admits of two quite different meanings. To the student and close follower of the game, it will mean the ability to win not only a fair percentage of games, but, most important of all, to finish the season with a team which is conceded to be one of the best. To the onlooker, prospects for a season will only mean that as he sees a goodly number of candidates trying for the different positions, he is convinced that the season's success is assured.

When one considers the different football surprises in late season playing, and that, too, after a team has as it were, been perfected in team play, it can readily be seen how difficult a task it is for a coach to tell just what his material will amount to, when, as is the case with us thus far, we have been emphasizing the rudimen-
