

CHEWAWA, OREGON,

FRIDAY FEBRUARY 7, 1902

Good Rules for Indian Schools,

Don't bring worry, at the table,
Don't bring anger, hate or sorrow;
Banish everything unpleasant,
Talk and eat with smiling jaws,
It will aid your own digestion,
If you will present a smiling face.
It will jolly up the others,
If you only set the pace.
Knowing something funny, tell it;
Something sad, forget to kneel it;
Somebody hateful, quick dispel it;
At the table.

Control domestic, business troubles,
Ills of body, skull or brain,
Eating thimbles and nagging tempers
Speech that cause other pain,
Public woe and grim-dick-torn,
Crows and wrongs and right's defeat.
Let them all go to the wind
When you sit down to eat,
Knowing something funny tell it;
Something sad, forget to kneel it;
Somebody hateful, quick dispel it;
At the table.

You may breathe a pious blessing,
Over viands rich and good,
But a blessing with long faces
Won't assimilate your food;
With a meal of bread and buttering,
With a glass of water clear,
Knowing something funny, tell it;
Something sad, forget to kneel it;
Somebody hateful, quick dispel it;
At the table.

Object of The Success Club.

Perhaps there is a future Altrahum
Lipido, a Duclit W. Laver, a Wandell
Pithy, in our school. Who can tell? We do know that these great men, and many others, required their inspirations in the old time literary society, of which the Success Club is a modern and improved outgrowth.

There are very few of us who live up to our highest possibilities; in fact, few realize what these possibilities are.

Naturally we inquire, what means the Success Club uses in helping its members to choose defaults in life. Every Success Club devotes some of its time at its regular meetings to the study of the lives of men and women who have achieved prominence in various fields. The motives which inspired these lives are discussed, and a general analysis is made showing the fruits of character which have helped or hindered them. In addition to the inspiring element of this biographical research, the Success Club members are taught history in the best possible way. For history is simply an account of the most important acts of a few men and women.

Another most efficient means of helping members to shape their ideals and to choose worthy aims in life, is the discussion of various questions bearing on achievement and character development. The properly conducted discussion of any interesting question is a training that will be found most helpful to any one. When these questions bear directly upon the problem of making most of one's self, its helpfulness is more than doubled.

In short the object of this club will be to develop character, promote helpfulness, and teach of the true principles of successful living.
