Mrs. Hill is visiting with friends in Portland.

The B class of the eighth grade are studying the different kinds of evils.

We had some interesting stories of Lincoln's school days in the fifth division.

Mr. Tombs has moved to the Employers' building where he rooms with Mr. Hart.

John Harris' rendition of the poem "When Lincoln died" was much enjoyed.

May Budget has succeeded Malinda Bomer in the mass domestic science department.

The Sub IV division has finished the life of Lincoln and has now taken up the life of Washington.

Birdie Anderson took charge of the cooking at the hospital during Mrs. Hill's brief absence.

Miller Collins has written a song which John Jim has set to music, and will sing same in chapel.

Wm. Mahone and Chas. Alexis represented the A class of the eight grade in the Lincoln Birthday exercises, Wednesday.

Miller Collins of the eighth division was one of the best speakers at the Lincoln Birthday exercises on Wednesday afternoon.

The two recitations from Miss Miller's room given at the Lincoln entertainment, by Mollie Cayou and Alex Dupuis were excellent selections and both well rendered.

Miss Miller's class had organic connection on Friday. The subject was Steam Heating and Electric Lighting. A visit to the Power House was conclusive of much good.

At chapel on Friday morning the little boys and girls from room No. 1 rendered an excellent program. The story of Lowell was simply and beautifully told. The speaking of these little people would do credit to children of a more advanced grade and speaks well for the careful work of their teacher Miss Ferrans.

Arthur Berard left Saturday for his home in Siletz. Arthur was a pupil of the eighth grade and in the graduating class. He always took part in all the athletic sports of the school.

Some of the eighth grade pupils find it hard work to make their nouns and verbs agree. Tom Young and William Mahone will make them if they keep on with their present study in-it-five-ness.

We hear that Dollie Slight has been recently married to Mr. Willier Johnson and that they are employed and living at the Oros School in Okla. Mrs. Johnson's many friends at Chemawa wish her long life and happiness.

Wasn't the boy that was sent three times the past week with a horse to town after something special and even succeeded to get what he went after? Strict attention to orders is very important, if a young man wishes to be well thought of.

The B. P. company's engine No. 254 that figured in the wreck in Sal on Jan. before Xmas passed through Chemawa pulling the eleven o'clock train Wednesday morning bound south. One could not tell the engine had passed through such a rough tangle.

Lincoln's birthday was celebrated by appropriate chapel exercises. A Biography by Miller Collins of Mrs. Cloutier's class. The reading of "Captain My Captain" by Elvira Parish, and the recitation "When Lincoln Died" by John Harris of Mrs. Campbell's room deserve especial mention.

SMALL BUT POWERFUL.

I am small, but I can exert more power upon a boy who loves me than any beautiful girl in the whole country. I can increase his nervous troubles, take away his physical energy, multiply his aches and pains, divide his mental force, take his interest from his work, discount his chances of success.
