Pacific Coast Institute.

Newport, Oregon, Aug. 18-23.

The Institute bids fair to be the largest and best ever held on the Coast. Many have already indicated their desire and intention to be present and enjoy the lovely climate of Oregon.

At that time of year while the whole East is suffering and trying to be comfortable, we here in Oregon are thankful that we are alive. Under these conditions the Institute can be made much more enjoyable and at the same time helpful.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

There were here turnout of employees on Sunday night for chapel services.

Miss Parthenon and May Budgett render very efficient service in the Mass Cafe.

Choir practice has been changed to Tuesday night. Now we hope to have regular rehearsals.

No, our boys do not have fist fights in debating societies. We suppose they are not civilized enough for that.

By mistake of the printers the word sets was made to read sets, in an article reported last week from Grade Eight.

Gertrude Brewer celebrated her eighteenth birthday last Wednesday. The mamma makes delicious birthday cake.

Mr. Craig of Salem addressed our people on Sunday evening. He was very successful in gaining the interested attention of all present.

We hear some good singing in No. 2 school room. Miss Woodin has her girls there and succeeds in making her boys and girls sing very sweetly.

The Basket Ball Girls are getting down to hard practice these days, and soon will be in condition to tackle any set girl. R. B. teams on the Coast. Keep up a constant practice girls. That's the only way to win out.

Stinson's Big Uncle Tom's Cabin Company will appear in Salem next Monday night. It is one of the biggest companies of its kind on the coast and carries a band and orchestra. The Chemawa Uncle Tom's Cabin Company should attend in a body.

Where could be found, here in Oregon, such lovely weather as was experienced last week, especially Saturday? Such balmy, sunshiny days are surely a harbinger of Spring. Look out on the lawn and other evidences are at hand, such as the green grass and the flowers. We only hope that the tender little buds may not become impatient to peep out into all danger of cold weather and frost is past.
