

Mr. Campbell was a surprised man on Tuesday night. He had been receiving congratulations during the day upon attaining his forty-fourth birthday. Had received a few little remembrances from his family and when evening came he went over to visit the societies thinking the day was pretty near a thing of the past and expecting in another hour or so to be sound asleep. We will not tell how glibly he was and how easily he was induced to rush over to the cottage to find an alleged burglar in one of the upstairs rooms. As a sprinter he always was successful and his forty-fourth birthday found him only a little less quick in his movements. A hearty laugh greeted him from the happy light hearted crowd of boys and girls who awaited his coming in the sitting room. He looked odd, but the smile was a full one on his good humor and appreciation of the compliment paid him by the young ladies and gentlemen testified. It was a "quite enough" surprise party. A delightful evening was spent. The game of "The Five Senses" was first played, the first prize being won by Chas. Cutler and the consolation prize by Mahto M'Key. Charades were then played, songs sung and just before refreshments were served Mr. Cause in a few aptly-phrased remarks presented Mr. Campbell in behalf of the guests a very laudable silver shaving mug and bench. Mr. Campbell responded to the remarks expressing his thanks at receiving such a beautiful evidence of the friendship of the young ladies and gentlemen present. He concluded by promising to use the article more frequently than he had done his old one.

Refreshments were served and then a ha-down cake in which placed 45 light colored wax candles was brought in. After a good jolly evening, good-night was reluctantly said. The young people were honored by the presence of Inspector Jenkins, Supt. Potter and Mrs. Carthage.

What is Home?

Recently a London magazine sent out 1,000 inquiries on the question, "What is Home?" In selecting the cases to respond to the question it was particularly to see that every one was represented. The poorest and the richest were given an equal opportunity to express their convictions. Out of 800 replies received some gems were selected, as follows:

1. Home—A world of strife shut out, a world of love shut in.
2. Home—The place where the small are great and the great are small.
3. Home—The father's kingdom, the mother's world and the child's paradise.
4. Home—The place where we grumble most and are treated the best.
5. Home—The center of our affections round which our heart's best wishes whirl.
6. Home—The place where the stomachs get three square meals daily and our hearts a thousand.
7. Home—The only place on earth where the faults and failings of humanity are hidden under the sweet mantle of charity.—[Selected.

Their meeting of March 15th was a happy one, and a grand success. They had an excellent program, but better still, every one
