RELIANCE DISBANDS.

The members of the Reliance Literary Society have disbanded until the next school term.

Instead of having a convention as is customary in Chemawa, they held a public meeting in the school chapel on the evening of May 26.

A large body of our students attended the meeting and by their close attention they gained how much they appreciated the movements of the society. The program which was rendered during the meeting was as follows:

Opening address, Alfred Gillie; Vocal solo, Joshua Gibson; Historical Reading, Chas. Abrah; Character Sketch, Marvin Wallin; Poem, Pierre; Henry Lee's Ode; Bible, Julius Daniels; Humorous Reading, Joe Waitan; Recitation, Alfred Gillie; Vocal Solo, Chas. Cutter.

After the well rendered program the society proceeded to the debate by ordering the speakers to take their seats on the stage. The question for debate was:—Resolved, that the warrior is of more benefit to his country than the statesman.

|---------------|---------------|
| Affirmative. | Negative. |
| Marvin Wallin | Chas. Cutter |
| Chas. Abrah | Joseph Wallin |
| Eugene Gille | John Harris |

The fine speeches delivered by the speakers were much enjoyed and as they retired to their seats the spectators responded with great applause.

While the brains of the two opposing parties were excited an order was received to close the meeting. As the order was read nothing but regrets were seen in the room but the order had to be followed. Joseph We as one of the negative speakers failed to speak on account of the time being limited. The judges decided in favor of the affirmative but if enough time had been given perhaps the negative would have stood a better show.

The judges were Alfred Payne, Thomas Young and James Smith, of the Executive Literary Society.

The accident closed the meeting at 8:42 and the society disbanded.

A Tribute to the Late E. Brown.

I was completely surprised to hear of the sudden and unexpected death of Elijah Brown of the Chemawa American. I was intimately acquainted with the deceased gentleman for several years and had him in high esteem. He had planned to spend a few days with me on my farm at Jefferson during the holidays. I was daily looking for him and wondering why he was not coming, when I one day picked up the daily paper and there read of his death. To say that I was shocked does not express my feeling.

Elijah and I were intimate friends. He suddenly ever came to Salem without calling on me and when I addressed the pupils of Chemawa, which I frequently did, Elijah Brown was the first person to take my hand and bid me welcome. He was a noble, warmhearted and honest young man; a credit to the school where he received his education, and an honor to the profession of journalism. About a year ago he became a member of the Salem Press Club in which he always took a lively part. I regret exceedingly his early demise but wish young men ate scarce in any community. I believe that Mr. Brown was a conscientious christian and that our loss is his eternal gain. I trust when our place on earth is ended, we may meet our Indian brother in that land where racial distinctions are unknown, and where all shall be known only as the "Son of God."
