

Pupils' Items.

We are making dresses for the new girls that came lately.

The days are beginning to look like rainy weather has begun.

Ether LaDue has been promoted from the fourth to the fifth grade.

Irene Barber writes from Haskell saying she likes the school very much.

We are nearly through with the girls' work dresses, in the sewing room.

The painter boys are getting along nicely with their work in the disincement.

The Industrial teacher and his boys are clearing a place to build the large boys' dormitory.

Nels Wolfan, the youngest brother of Joseph Wolfan, one of our '02 graduates, is now enrolled as a pupil.

There are many more large girls now and Mrs. Theter is glad as she can move to the new building.

Division A. of the fourth grade has four of the new pupils that Mr. Puster brought with him.

Miss O'Hara will be glad to start on some new garments, so making so many work dresses gets monotonous.

Foot ball boys you had better leave all kinds of devices alone if you intend to be a good man to carry the ball.

Mr. Stoulanmeyer Mr. Farrow and their helpers are painting the wood work of the dining hall, they are getting along nicely.

Boys study hard, don't play while you are in the school room. Don't play live you are out of school, when you are in the school room.

The girls and boys from different places are coming to Chemawa on almost every train. So we must be ready to meet them with pleasant smiles.

The rain has come and the boys have begun to play marbles, they must like to play in the mud for they never get out to play till the ground is muddy.

Miss O'Hara and her girls are quite busy making the school aprons for the girls this week, after those are finished they will start in with the girls' school uniforms for this winter.

In California it is so hot that some of the people walk around until the morning and then go to bed. But the rain never forgets Oregon, even when it is dry in the summer we have fine cool weather here.

It is very encouraging to a teacher, to have a fine, manly, looking young fellow come into the school room, and take hold of the work, as if he came here for an education, instead of killing time, and annoying the other pupils who wish to learn.

The black smith shop is a very busy place now. There are boys at every fire, some learning to weld, some learning to draw and shape iron, etc. The new boys are first taught the names of the different tools and what they are used for.

Francis See-See is the latest addition to the black smith shop detail. Silas Mester says he came to Chemawa to learn black smithing and to finish his education, and does not intend to fool away any of his time. Silas is a bright boy and is learning fast.

The Chemawa foot-ball team is practicing every night and morning. They played a game with the second team and came out ahead. The Chemawa foot-ball team is not so strong as it was last year, but by the time the season is in full swing our boys will astonish the natives.

Here in Chemawa I am working in the tailor shop. I have learned a great deal of my trade. I have succeeded so far and I have courage to learn more. Although I may not learn it thoroughly I have it in my mind, that when I leave this place I intend to buy out a shop in some town or city. What I have said in these few lines I intend to stick right to.—[E. J. Ohi.

"The Chemawa American" must be having a good time with their fruit and their school. We are glad to see the descendants of Poor Lie being educated and prepared for citizenship.—[High School Sentiment.
