Song, "Singing In the Rain," School.

The Days of the Week, 7 little girls of 2nd grade.

Little Jack Horner, Tommy Potter.

An Indian Legend, Lena Alliger, 4th grade.

Piano Solo, Margaret McDonald.

Song, "Only A Soldier Boy," Joe Teabo and Choir.

Recitation, Fernin Wilson of receiving grade.

The Gypsy Fortune-teller, Jessie Symington and Leila LeMaister of 5th grade.

Solo, "Please Let Me Sleep," Mrs. Campbell.

Recitation, "Uncle Jack," James Egan of 2nd grade.

A Lesson in English, Canon Reyes of the mixed grade.

Operetta, Red Riding Hood.

This seems like a long program for a monthly entertainment, but it was such an enjoyable one that its length was not evident, the audience appearing desirous of still more. Most of the selections were well rendered. While not wishing to particularize, it seems fair to specially mention "A Lesson In English," by Canon Reyes which was delivered with expression and grace not often seen in a school. Canon is one of our Filipino boys and he is fast mastering the peculiar idiom of the English language. Lena Alliger read her Indian Legend with a clear and pretty enunciation. Patricia Nelson, although forgetting a moment or two, soon rallied and resumed her recitation in a very able manner. The expert recitations were well delivered. The little folks did very well considering it was the first time any of them has appeared in public. Fernin Wilson, our tiny tot, carried off the honors of the occasion.

After the regular program the beautiful Operetta of Red Riding Hood was produced. There has never been anything so pretty at Chemawa in the universal comment. Taken as a whole the first monthly entertainment of this year has been a great success. Following is the list of characters that taken part in the Operetta:

Red Riding Hood, Irene Campbell.

Her Mother, Mrs. Grove.

Wolf, John Harris.

Fairy Queen, Agnes Bagnall.

The Fairies—Leila Smith, Meta LaChapelle, Mary Decker, Violet Dupuis, Olive LaFlambeau, Mary J. Smith, Clara DePon, Fanny Blak, Jessie Symington, Jennie Downie, Addie Cameron, Hassi Budgett, Willie Downie and Lis Baldwin.

The costumes were of bright colors, and airy fabrics and our girls looked beautiful.

Notes Concerning The Operetta.

Much credit should be given to Mrs. Campbell for the excellent rendition of the Operetta "Little Red Riding Hood."

The characters were well given and sustained, plainly showing the results of the well directed training they received.

Irene Campbell, as Little Red Riding Hood captivated the audience by her sweet impersonation of that favorite character and also proved that she is indeed an actress.

Will Harris as the Wolf, added new laurels to his already excellent reputation. His enunciation was good and he could be distinctly understood in any part of the hall while his acting was unexcelled. Agnes Bagnall "looked every inch a queen" in her regal robes and charmed every one by her gracious presence. Mrs. Grove made a very "motherly mother" and sang very sweetly.

There have been many requests to repeat this pretty operetta.
