

School and the Reliance Club of Oakland, Cal., played a scoreless game on the Willamette University campus this afternoon. The condition of the gridiron was unfavorable for testing the true merits of the respective teams. There were numerous mud puddles about the field, and into these the players were many times precipitated in great order. Frequently wrangling, in which the Californians took the premium, marred the pleasure of what would otherwise have proven an interesting contest.

Chemawa, while handicapped in weight, outplayed the clubmen at every stage of the game, although Kelsey, for the visitor, was more successful in his punts than was Saunders, Chemawa's old reliable. Repeated fumbles defeated scoring by either team. But for dropping the ball on this account, Saunders would have scored a touchdown within five minutes after the game started. While Saunders recovered the pigskin, the redskins were unable to make the required yardage and lost the ball on downs, when Kelsey punted into safer territory. Near the close of the second half Saunders was ruled out of the game by Referee Hamilton for slugging with Wilbur, who was the aggressor.

For Chemawa Saunders made the yardage, while Teabo, the plucky quarterback, made a number of sensational "kangaroo" leaps. Schildt, the former Carlisle player, Kelsey and McGee did the best work for the visitors, who played a punting game. Chemawa rarely resorted to punting, but made the necessary yardage by fierce kicking of the line. When an advance was necessary, the invincible Saunders was hurtled against the line, with surprising result.

The teams lined up as follows:

CHEMAWA CHALLENGE CLUBMEN,

Indians Want to Play Multnomah Again.

Salem or Portland to Be Scene of Contest.

Superintendent T. W. Potter of the Chemawa Indian training school, on behalf of the football team of that institution, has telegraphed the Multnomah Athletic Club, of Portland, challenging the eleven of that organization for a return game of football. The Indians agree to play the game either at Salem or in Portland, and have suggested Saturday January 10th, or Saturday, February 21st. The dusky lads from the Chemawa school are willing to subscribe to almost any terms, for they are desirous of another chance at the clubmen. Multnomah has appropriated to itself, as usual, the championship of the state for the season, and the Indians think that before doing so the clubmen are required by athletic custom to play the return engagement that is solicited. These two teams have played but one game this season, and in that contest the Indians were defeated by a small score.

The Chemawa-Reliance game of Saturday, while it was a big undertaking, proved a success financially, and for this the members of Chemawa team and the management of the school are thankful to the Salem public for its generous patronage. Saturday's game again demonstrated the great need of an enclosed athletic field in this city. There is not a place in the city or suburbs that an athletic contest can be held, and an admission charged and collected. Some accommodation should be provided before next season arrives, when Salem ought to be represented with strong teams on both the gridiron and on the diamond.—[The Daily Journal.
