A good reputation costs nothing, but is worth more than anything.

Fresh air and sunshine make rosy cheeks, healthy bodies and happy people.

"There is no one thing so trifling but which (if it is worth doing at all) ought to be done well."

Look out for the man, who, when he walks, everlastingly holds his head down.
Ten to one he is a sneak, of the meanest kind.

Keep your windows closed tight so no air can get into your rooms when you sleep and you will soon be ready for the undertaker.

Just think of the two or three weeks of lovely sunshine and beautiful weather we have been enjoying here in Oregon during this month. When you say, "Oh it rains all the time in Oregon" Don't lie about it. We have lots of nice weather in Oregon in winter as well as summer. Oregon is all right.

When you sing do not be afraid to open your mouth good and wide. Then speak your words distinctly so your audience will know whether you are singing Italian or English.

If people would learn to speak the English language with as much expression as they do profane language, there would be a great many more smarter and fluent people in the world.

The Editor of the January "Chillico Farmer and Stock Grower" has descended to Billingsgate and veniality that is unbecoming any paper in the Indian Service, and shows a mind that lacks dignity. The paper is full of coarseness and, to say the least, expressions which Indian pupils should not read.

Throw those shoulders back, fill your lungs full of pure air, and stand erect, if you want to be healthy and look well, young and vigorous. When you walk, walk as if you were going somewhere.
Don't mope along, dragging your feet as if you were too tired or lazy to move. It looks bad and will cause others to have a very unfavorable impression of you and your ability.

Dallas, January 12 —(Statesman Special.)
"Last night the Dallas team played Chemawa in Dallas. The score stood 29 to 4, in favor of Dallas. This was a clean game and the Chemawa boys acquitted themselves in a gentlemanly manner, although clearly outmached by the home team.
The visitors made many friends in Dallas, and will be held in high esteem by the lovers of clean sports in this city, for the Dallas team boasts of her clean record and appreciates the privilege of meeting Chemawa."
