

Miss Cora Williams arrived here at ten o'clock last night. Quite a number of the boys and girls who knew her seemed very glad to see her.

Mrs Westfall writes Miss O'Here that she is very much pleased with her work and surroundings at the Perris school, California.

The clarinet section in the band is beginning to resemble a real one, and it is hoped that by next July they will number over a dozen.

We are all very glad to have Addie Cameron back to school again, and we hope that her hand will soon be well enough so she can use it again.

The proof-readers got things mixed in last week's issue. It was Mrs. Campbell who spent Saturday and Sunday with friends in Salem; not Mr. Campbell.

The Chinamen who are working on the railroad track here at Chemawa celebrated their New Year on 28th. They are twenty eight days behind the time.

Helen Johnson is a very nice singer. She has a nice strong voice. I believe that if she would take vocal lessons she would be one of the best singers in the school.

Two new girls came to school a few days ago. They came from Tulalip. Their names are Lizzie Kanem and Lena Jones and I hope they will get along nicely at Chemawa.

Some of our nice young gentlemen seem to be rather worried about how the young ladies wear their hair. We feel proud to know that they take so much interest as to how we appear.

It is raining to-day and has rained a good deal since I have been at Chemawa. But it is better than snow. Where I came from, it snowed a great deal and I like rain much better.

Miss Hutchinson is a faithful attendant at church in Salem. She walks in every Sunday morning, rain or shine. It is a five mile walk to Salem, and five miles back, making ten miles for the young lady every Sunday morning.

The office force has been burning the midnight oil, this week.

The Societies show marked improvement since they began last fall.

George Olney is doing some quite creditable work in the wagon shop.

What more are we to be thankful for, besides the electric lights and steam heat?

The regular monthly entertainment will be rendered next Wednesday evening.

Just as we go to press some more of "the beautiful" began to gently fall from above.

The floods in Southern Oregon caused the trains to be delayed for several days, this week.

Thos. Holden is the youngest boy in the wagon shop, and Mr. Hilb says that he is falling right in line with his work.

Keep your coats buttoned up, your mouths shut and breathe through your noses, when out in this damp weather.

Walter Dyke is a good steady hand in the wagon shop. He has the right spirit and will make a success, if he keeps up his stick-to-it-ive-ness.

The moving of the several industrial departments into their new up-to-date building will give the apprentices a valuable idea of how to fix up their own shops when they begin the battle of life for themselves.

Among the prompt ones to renew their subscription this week, in order to not miss a single copy, perhaps, were, Supt. D. D. McArthur, Siletz, Ore.; Fabian Quenel, Grande Ronde, Ore.; S. R. Lawrence, Albuquerque, N. Mex; and through the latter Edwin Schanandore, Riverside Ind. Sch., Calif.

The Wagon shop is about to get in shape to do actual work in the wagon making line. The work benches are fast nearing completion. Every boy now has a very valuable experience in making work benches, tool-boxes, etc. Each boy will take care of his own tools and keep them in good order. This will cause the shop to always be kept neat and will give it a business-like appearance.
