

"Chemawa Park."

Chemawa has been honored by the citizens of Riverside, Cal., by naming one of their beautiful parks, adjoining the city of Riverside and the Sberman Institute, "Chemawa". When the question of naming this park came up the owners and managers of the Electric railway asked Supt. Hall, of the Indian School, to suggest some Indian names. He sent in several, Chemawa being one of them. These names were admitted to the citizens of Riverside and ninety per cent of the votes favored Chemawa as the most beautiful and appropriate name.

The Riverside school is now bound to grow and prosper, as part of its lovely grounds is called Chemawa, and we congratulate our sisters school, so beautifully located among the palm trees and orange groves and wish it the greatest amount of success and happiness.

Resemble the Japanese.

In discussing the always interesting question of the real origin of the American Indian, Supervisor Wright said: "I often notice in entering a community or school of Indian children, where they have cast off their blankets and are dressed after the ideas of civilization, that they have many of the features and comely looks of the higher grade of Sawanese. There is nothing about them, to my mind, of the Chinese types, but the payanese features predominate, I think, to a great extent. I have often felt like agreeing with those writers who have figured out that the American Indian is a descendant of some of the Tartar races, or Japanese immigrants who must have crossed at Behring straits in the past centuries. They are certainly an interesting people and in our schools the children become doubly interesting. Most of them are naturally bright and quick and learn the language and our manners easily."—Chillogo Farmer and Stock Grower.

Local and General.

The plumbers finished work on Mr. Woods' cottage Tuesday.

The flowers are blooming very fast around the Hospital.

Four teams have been busy hauling wood to the power house this week.

A number of employees attended Easter services in Salem last Sunday.

The painters painted the floors in the doctor's private room and office in the hospital this week.

Mr. Beard, chief of police of Chemawa, is a cornetist of considerable ability, and an able addition to the band.

A nice subscription list was received from A. W. Smith, teacher at Mora, Clallam County, Washington.

The patch of land between the hospital and the employee's building is being plowed up and will be put into lawn.

The girls of the Priscilla Club are all anxious for the next meeting to find out what Miss Bowman has in store for them.

Mr. Cooper is papering and painting his rooms. He has also purchased some new furniture and carpets and will have very pleasant apartments when completed.

Arbor day was observed at Chemawa by planting a large number of shade trees, and within a very few years beautiful trees will serve as a magnificent monument of Arbor day, 1903.

The band boys are practising both morning and evening now. Professor Stoudenmyer is determined that the boys shall be in the best possible training when they start on their tour.

Mrs. M. V. Cooper received her appointment last week as Domestic Science teacher at Chemawa. This is a new and very beneficial branch to the school, and Mrs. Cooper's many friends are pleased that she was the successful applicant among the large number, in different parts of the United States, who took the examination last January. This examination is one of the most difficult in the service.