Miss Ida Miller, teacher in the Salem city school, visited friends at Chemawa last Sunday.

We are under obligations to The Capitol Journal for the cut of President Roosevelt which appears on fourth page.

Cornelius Hill, chief of the Oneida Indians, last survivor of the famous Six Nations of New York state, will be ordained as a priest of the Episcopal church June 24, on the reservation near Green Bay, Wis—Indian Leader.

Supt. C. W. Goodman, by invitation, accompanied the governor's party to the Grand Canyon last week, to welcome President Roosevelt to Arizona. A special car was provided and a delightful time was enjoyed by all—The Native American.

The Industrial building now has a new cement sidewalk along the front. The walk will also be extended out to the commissary. These new walks were laid out in a manner that will add a nice appearance to the grounds as well as being a convenience.

The Chemawa ball team went to Gervais last Friday to meet the Mt. Angel team on the Gervais diamond, but the latter team failed to make an appearance, claiming that it was too wet. In fact there was a slight shower before dinner, and it was undoubtedly received with great joy by the missing team, as it served as a flimsy excuse for not meeting the Chemawa team.

A number of local boys returned our boys over and returned much disappointed at not seeing a game.

Industrial Notes.

Faunie Sisk has been detailed to the Mess Cafe.

The orchards are being harrowed and leveled down.

Several teams were busy hauling gravel for the new sidewalks first of the week.

Who will have the best looking and most profitable school garden is the question that is uppermost in the minds of the Chemawa pupils.

The farmers are opening up the street between the industrial building and the garden this week. It will extend from the orchard to the south end of the grounds.

Mr. Childers had his mower at work on the school grounds mowing the grass Tuesday. Lawn mowers will now be run over the ground and the grass trimmed short.

John Stacy, Jacob Sorter and Clarence Byrd, of the gardener's force, whitewashed the fence on each side of the track along the school grounds this week. They will also whitewash the trees in the orchard later on.

It is an interesting sight to see the pupils at work in their garden on the east side of the school house. A large patch of ground has been laid out for school gardening, and is divided into several parts, each grade being allotted an equal space and the purpose is to instruct the pupils in gardening.

They are instructed how to prepare the ground and plant flowers and vegetables. Mrs. Cloutier is head gardener and goes about the work in a manner that soon convinces one that she is no stranger to farm life and wields the rake with a cleverness and dexterity that would make Maud Muller envious.

Sewing Room Items.

We miss Cora Richardson and Jennie Downie in the sewing room this week.

The sewing classes have finished up the gingham dresses for the little girls.
