

A Pleasant Evening.

Those who attended the sociable in the gymnasium last Tuesday evening will long remember the pleasant time had. It was, probably without an exception, the most pleasant affair of the season. The large building was crowded, but everything passed off in an orderly and quiet manner. Although the evening was quite warm, there was ice cream in abundance—as long as it lasted—and plenty of fresh June air laden with the delicious odor of roses, drifting in the open doors and windows, which blended in harmony with the sweet music by the orchestra and filled every heart with joy.

The announcement of a sociable earlier in the day was received with surprise, for, where was the music? There was not even a bugler left after the band departed. But Assistant Superintendent Campbell takes a delight in making a success out of what is a seeming impossibility to others and on this occasion he was determined to eclipse everything in the sociable line, and he did it, too.

The service of Prof. E. G. Ristine and Prof. W. V. Warner, two well known Salem musicians, were procured, and those who have heard them play well know that Chemawa enjoyed a musical treat. The orchestra was composed of the following: Prof. Ristine, violin; Prof. Warner, cornet; Miss Woodin, piano; Mr. Woodin, trombone; Mr. Hilb, clarinet; Mr. Don Campbell, bass violin. The entire orchestra was praised in the highest terms by all.

Mr. Ristine, a brother to the musician, who is a clog dancer of considerable ability, delighted the audience with a dance on the stage.

These three Salem gentlemen will always find a hearty welcome awaiting them at Chemawa.

The June number of the Chillico Farmer contains an excellent picture of Chemawa's domestic science room, wherein Mrs. Cooper and a class of seven girls are busily engaged with their work.
