

of us are extremely reluctant to part, namely, our mirror. This, too, we leave to our vain sister, 1904. We know with what rejoicing this gift will be received, for it is the pride of the girls, and we are not sure that the boys are not sometimes attracted to behold it, and in so doing to behold themselves. But for them the glass itself has no attraction—it is the budding mustache and high collar that charms the eye. As hereinbefore set forth this is to become the possession of the gay and festive juniors so that they may learn to see themselves as others see them.

FOURTH: We give to the junior class the following good advice, and we know that in following this they will be led on to paths of glory: Copy 1903; learn to work, if not to win; remember always our motto, "Our todays and yesterdays are the blocks with which we build." It isn't fun, but still, look at 1903 and be encouraged.

FIFTH: To the Literary and Industrial Departments, we leave the "golden beams of truth and the silken cords of love." May these ever lead them on together in a sweet union.

SIXTH: And to you, Superintendent Potter, in consideration of the fact that you have been instrumental in procuring the necessary funds for the development of the Salem Indian Training School, we extend our grateful thanks.

In addition to the articles here-in-before enumerated which are enforced gifts, we leave (not because we cannot take them with us, but of our own free will) our blessing and best wishes from henceforth.

All the rest and residue of our property whatsoever and wheresoever, of what nature, kind and quality, whatsoever it may be, and not hereinbefore disposed of, we give and bequeath to our teacher, for her own use and benefit. If she so desires, we give her permission to use in educating our younger brothers and sisters the brilliant thoughts and startling information we have given her, especially those recorded in our written examinations. And we do hereby nominate and appoint the said teacher sole executor of this, our last will and testament.

In testimony whereof we, the class of 1903, the testators, have to this, our last will and testament, contained on six sheets of paper, subscribed and set our seal this Thirtieth day of June, in the year of our Lord, One Thousand, Nine-hundred and Three.
