

About Ourselves.

Miss Agnes Bagnell is visiting with her sister in Portland.

Mr. Cooper made a short trip to Horse Heaven, Wash., first of the week.

Herbert Campbell is working for Contractor Gray at the Reform School.

Miss Creta Johnson, of Salem, visited with her sister, Mrs. Williams, several days this week.

Joseph Teabo is spending his vacation along the Columbia river, taking in different points of interest.

Agent Wm. H. Smead, of the Flat Head Agency, Mont., made Chemawa a pleasant call recently.

Owing to the increase in the prune crop it was found necessary to make more wire trays for drying purposes.

The picture of the football team which appears on another page, was taken from a photograph by Mr. Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Godwin and Mr. and Mrs. H. Maun and family leave to-day for a two weeks' camping trip on Salmon creek.

The item on page 7, about Dennison Wheelock, the Haskell band leader, was copied from Conn's Truth, and should have been credited so.

The old N. G. house has been painted two coats of white paint. Some repairs were needed before being painted but it looks very well any way.

The woodwork around the bakery oven has been painted white by the painters. It really needs another coat to make it look swell, and it will come in due time.

Mrs. J. J. Clark, who recently arrived from Duluth, Minn., and is now residing in Portland, spent a few days last week visiting her cousin, Mrs. Becker, at the school.

Mr. Mann did a clever little engineering feat in moving our press from the second story of the Office building to our new office. The press weighs about 2000 pounds, and had to be moved out through a narrow doorway and down a steep, narrow flight of stairs. The work was done quickly and in a splendid manner, devoid of any accident whatever.

Chemawa has a very quiet appearance at present owing to the large number of pupils who are out working during the vacation and quite a number of the employees are taking their annual outing.

Daisy Dyke is at Landenberg, Chester county, Pa. She states that she likes Pennsylvania very much and that "it is a beautiful country." She sends her best wishes to all Chemawa friends.

Mr. R. G. Henderson, Chemawa's merchant, has an advertisement in another column that is of interest to all our readers. Mr. Henderson is desirous of obtaining a share of your trade. Look up his ad and see what he has to say.

The Chemawa Band certainly scored another victory at Chautauqua. The people were more pleased than ever before. Requests were so numerous that all of them could not be granted. Many letters of thanks were received by Mr. Stoudeum from appreciative listeners. Chautauqua would not seem natural without Chemawa's Band.

A pleasing scene was witnessed at the social Friday evening. While one of the Indian girls was seated at the piano playing a piece, she espied a violin near at hand, whereupon she readily gave up her seat at the piano to a friend and took up the stringed instrument and played an accompaniment. How many white girls in the seventh grade can do likewise?

A new boy recently assigned to the gardener's detail was sent to hoe the strawberry plants the other day. Mr. Wesley arrived upon the scene shortly after the boy had been at work and found the little fellow hoeing up the healthy young plants with great dexterity. Upon being asked what he was doing, he replied "that in had been ordered to hoe the strawberries and he guessed he'd have to obey orders."
