Sam Morris, from the Lapwai Reservation, Idaho, the pride of the Portland Browns, and whose fame as a pitcher has reached the Atlantic, is a member of our first baseball team and a fair sample of

OBJECT OF THE SCHOOL.

The object of the school is to give every Indian boy and girl an education and teach them a trade so that they may go out into the world and make a living and become useful citizens.

The child is brought here, clothed, fed, and educated entirely at the expense of the government. In doing this the government aims to repay the Indians for some of the wrongs they suffered at the hands of the whites earlier in our history.
