

INDUSTRIAL NOTES

Joe L'Heureux and Alvin Pollock are working on heavy harness.

The boys in the tailor shop are busy making uniform pants.—F. I.

The harness-makers were glad to see Elmer Zimmerman back in their shop.

Haynes Bateman is making the breeching for the single dray harness.

Henry Nelson is only a new member in the blacksmith force, but he does very neat work.

Nearly all the girls in the little girls' sewing room know how to cut out dresses and make them.

Tracey Johnson and Silas Albert have been repairing windows in the medium-sized-boys' home.—J. S.

The dressmakers have begun to make the small girls' dresses, and hope they will soon finish them —X.

Elmer Sorahan who has been promoted from the fifth A. to the sixth B. is now working in the afternoon.

Paschal George and David Risling were very busy last week making 1907 skates in the blacksmith shop.

The girls in Miss Brown's sewing room are making uniforms for the Second Company of small girls' home.—B. D.

A visit to the blacksmith shop this morning found the boys shoeing horses and at work on a three and a half inch farm wagon.

Mr. Beck is very glad to have Fred Dick in his shop, and is doing well in his work. We hope he will be a good tailor.—T. Y.

Some of the carpenter boys have been busy this week "making good" the roof on the boys' building where the new tin gutters were laid.

William Burke who has been in the harness shop for nearly two months is now working on a set of heavy harness and is getting along nicely.

Last Wednesday while the farmers were blasting they put a blast that sent most of the stump on the horse barn which made a hole in it.—F. L.

Miss Mary McCush says that she likes to work in the mess, and is going to learn cooking before she quits. We hope she will as it is a wise thing.—D.G.

The wagon-makers are busy on a set of new wheels for a three-inch wagon. This being our first trial without an instructor, we are rather slow, but sure.—M. S.

The blacksmiths shod a team for a sawmill north of Chemawa. Mr. Mann gave the boys some very good pointers on shoeing horses which the boys gladly accepted.—H. W.

There has been some danger of the potatoes freezing in the potato house but Mr Westley has prevented them from freezing by putting a stove in there and having his garden boys keep up fire day and night till the cold weather is over
