

BREVITIES

Alice Bittles is working for Mrs. Spink now.

Nellie Shepard made her sister Aggie a neat spring dress.

From every shop and department the boys are now out grubbing stumps.

Jessie LaBreche is taking charge of the mending room during Mrs. O'Here's absence.

We are all glad to see Lizzie Orcutt back to McBride Hall again after her illness.

Henry Olson is doing some fine work for Mrs. Chalcraft. He is a very good worker.

Jessie La Breche is making two dresses for Amanda Lilligreen and Alice McPherson.

Margery Gray is working in the sewing room. Margery is getting to be a good dress maker.

Clarinda Blodgett favored her many friends by singing one of the latest songs Thursday morning.

May Mercier is working in the sewing room this week. She is very neat and careful about her work.

When you go to your matrons for any thing, don't forget to say, "Thank you," for what they gave you.

Viola Ferris is now working at the laundry and is doing fine for the short time she has worked there.

Last Thursday afternoon the wagons in the paint shop were treated with a speech by Eugene Williams.

Bessie Eannens is going to be a fine seamstress some day if she is always as faithful as she has been the past week.

John Beuchard is doing good work setting out strawberry plants. He will soon be the head gardener of the school.

Richard Long who has been attending school at the Salem Business College, went home to California, last Wednesday morning.

LOST—A beautiful bead belt between the cemetery and the main entrance on the track. Finder will please apply to Dora Gray.

Hattie Mann is busy this week on needle work on an apron for her sister, Nora. It's going to be real pretty when she finishes it.

Our dinner, Thursday, was an hour late, and while waiting, a field meet was held by the little boys of Mrs. Newcomb's building, and was enjoyed by all who were present.

The sewing room girls are working hard in order to finish dresses for the McBride Hall girls this month. They finished eighteen gingham dresses last week, besides twenty-three white skirts, thirty-eight sheets and the regular mending work.

The Y. M. C. A. is still improving its good work. The meeting on last Wednesday was devoted to prayer. This bright work will be held every month. The leaders were: Robert Davis, Eugene Williams, Albert Garry, and Webster Hudson, and some other members followed. After this we will have some of the members talk to the association on some helpful subject. There were several new members joined. Before adjournment, the meeting was devoted to business. The members will have a field meet again among themselves in the near future before the public.