

We enjoyed the lettuce salad Wednesday.

It sounds good to hear that the strawberries are ripe.

Mary Costa is one of the best spellers in the 4th A class.

Mrs. Beck took eighteen small girls for a picnic to Old Chemawa Monday.

The carpentering department is running full force this year, every bench being occupied.

The men are working very rapidly plastering the boy's home, we wish them to finish soon.

Every morning before school you can see a number of pupils out working on their gardens.

By the way, Grace Dumore was hoeing her garden last week, it seems like she is going to have the best garden.

Mr. Alex Young, our assistant cook, has returned from Tacoma, Washington, where he spent a month's vacation with his brother.

Mr. Overman, a former Chemawa employe, has renewed his subscription for the CHEMAWA AMERICAN. He is now living successfully in Lents, Oregon.

The gardeners are glad to see John Bouchard do some good work digging holes for the boys to plant strawberries. He is getting to be a good hand with the plow.

Last Saturday evening a few of the McBride Hall girls had a very enjoyable time playing hide-and-seek. It was fun to see Laura Reed and Millie LaBreache run for the base.

News reached us that Abraham Bell is going to be married with one of the neighboring girls at Ronan, Montana. The wedding is going to be held in the latter part of this month. We all wish him success in his conjugal life.

NOTES FROM THE SEWING ROOM

Who said picnic?

Martha Miles is making a white dress for Clara Wilson.

Maudie Hamilton is one of Miss O'Here's best dress makers.

Mary McLeod is making a beautiful white dress for Susie Duval.

Nora Van Pelt is making a pretty dress for Gertrude Kettlewood.

Lizzie Galbreath is expecting her graduating gown from home this week.

Violet Edwards made herself a pin cushion which she seems to be very proud of.

Millie LaBreache is now working in the sewing room. She is a fine dress-maker.

There are many summer dresses yet that we are to make as soon as the rush is over.

The sewing room girls intend to go down to the river for a picnic as soon as the horses can be spared.

Louise Murray is making herself a beautiful creamy summer dress. It's going to be real pretty when she gets this on.

The sewing room department ordered some machine oil, but they were greatly surprised when James Sloan brought a box of beans and sawdust instead.

We wonder why the dressmakers all have such happy smiling faces. Perhaps they are thinking of the picnic that is coming off soon.

Nellie Sloan is making a bureau scarf for Bessie Boles. Nellie is very skillful in fancy needle work and Bessie will surely appreciate very much this beautiful gift.
