ONLY THOSE who enjoy dining on air can afford to trust luck.

THE TASTE of beauty and the relish of what is decent, just and amiable perfect the character of the gentleman and the philosopher.

THE HAPPIEST moments in our lives is when some long deferred hope has been realized.

Just imagine how happy the printers were when Mr. Campbell visited the printing office and told us that a new press much better than the one now in use, is on the way to Chemawa, and a supply of job type, borders, ornaments, etc. When we get our electric motor Chemawa printing office will be in first class condition.

TO THE PUPILS who have been disappointed in not finding their items published—we will make the following explanation:

There are about 580 pupils in the school at present, and they are required to write items once a week. This rule has been enforced for a long time, the pupils are getting an excellent language lesson and at the same time helping to keep up their school paper, but we cannot publish all that are sent in. It would take a paper three or four times as large as the AMERICAN to hold them all. Then we find many that are written on the same subject—the reading of which would become tiresome if they were published. But we always try to select some from each grade, thus giving all a chance to see their items in print.

A Boy Wanted

Wanted—a boy that is manly,
A boy that is kind and polite,
A boy you can always depend on
To do what he knows to be right,
A boy that is truthful and honest
And faithful and willing to work.
But we have not a place that we care to disgrace
With a boy that is ready to shirk.

Wanted—a boy you can tie to
A boy that is trusty and true,
A boy that is good to old people
And kind to the little ones too,
A boy that is nice to the home folks
And pleasant to sister and brother,
A boy who will try when things go awry
To be helpful to father and mother.

These are the boys who are wanted
In the workshop, the home the store;
The world needs such boys in its business,
For them there are places galore.
These are the boys we depend on—
Our hope for the future, and then Grave problems of state and the world's work await

Such boys when they grow to be men.
