IT IS A LAMENTABLE fact that we do at times misspell words, get our sentences twisted and have our nouns, verbs and prepositions in discord, but if we were not reminded of these slips of pen, say on the average once a week, we might go on forever, not knowing that any one was offended. So it is with pleasure that we publish a pupil's item under the head of "a criticism."

Presuming that this young man writes his items without flaws, we are safe in saying that the majority do not. As everyone knows that the printing force is made up of pupils from different grades and are inexperienced in the art of printing and it is a very difficult task to always get perfect work from them, although the copy before them is correct.

The omission of letters and whole words sometimes occurs, also parts of sentences, which we let run through as we have no time to make up a new stick. We know that our dear readers understand things as they are.

TO THE EDITOR:

The adult and receiving primary grades, wish to inform Col. Randall through the medium of your paper that their tree was named in honor of the dear "Old Man" and wish to be recognized.

A Criticism

Speaking of patient and careful workers, the "printer" as a general rule, is very patient and careful to see that no word or letter is changed. But I can not help noticing that through some slight carelessness, several of my items have been changed, by putting, or changing a word and even some times several words changed or added. I reminded two of the printers of this, but they denied any knowledge of it. Now I do hope that the printers will be more careful hereafter, because my items have been criticized through their carelessness.—A pupil.

THE END OF THE LIMIT.

"What do you get for all this work?"

I was asked the other day;

"Oh, nothing at all but the thanks," I said;

"Our glory is our pay."

And straightway 'round the corner came

Some classmates on the run,

And advancing toward my helpless self
Said, "Geo, this issue's bum."—Ex.
