

LOCALS

Every body is busy preserving strawberries.

Charlie Harris has gone home to spend the summer.

Pickering Chalcraft is fast becoming a fine cornet player.

The choir are now seated upon the platform in the chapel.

Miss Frizzell and Miss Hutchinson spent Sunday in Salem.

Mr. Chalcraft and family went to Portland on Wednesday evening.

Large bouquets of roses decorate the tables in the employees' mess.

The wet weather keeps some of us from working in our gardens.

Mr. Hatt taught the senior class in Sunday school on Sunday morning.

Miss Preuss, one of the office clerks, visited the printing office Tuesday evening.

Mr. Forbes gives us some pretty hard raps in regard to cigarette smoking every Sunday night.

Misses Gertrude, Ella and Katie Brewer will play at Miss Weller's recital in Salem June 20th.

Miss O'Keefe of the Good Samaritan Hospital of Salem visited Dr. Fryer Sunday morning.

Miss Gertrude and Mrs. Brewer, and Miss Irene Campbell accompanied Miss Harold to her home Monday.

Robert Cameron and Louis John are taking a rest from the duties of the printing office and are acting as janitors in the school building.

James Evans and David LaChance are the new school orderlies, vice Miller Charles and George Wilson transferred to the garden detail.

Mrs. W. G. Day, of Hornbrook, California, aunt of Mrs. E. M. Bailey, of Chemawa, passed here on the train to Portland, where she will be doctored.

Mr. Herbert Campbell was one of the officials at the field meet held at Fair Grounds on Saturday afternoon. The State University carried off most of the honors.

Mr. Campbell went to California for pupils. He sailed from Portland on Friday evening and will be 54 hours on the ocean before he reaches Eureka, Cal. We wonder if he will not be glad to get his feet on terra firma.

John Peazzoni left for his home in California Monday. Peazzoni was one of our strong players in the first team of football, and also a member of the second baseball team, which has never been defeated yet this year.

Miss Irene Campbell and Miss Gertrude Brewer drove over to Glen Harold, Miss Harold's home on Monday afternoon. Report says they were up in a cherry tree feasting upon that delicious fruit while the poor robins chirped in dismay to see the rapid disappearance of their favorite spring dainty.

Charley Harris left for his home in California last Friday. Chas. was a pupil in the sixth grade and a member of the printing force. He was well liked by his class-mates and his fellow apprentices for his good nature and obedience and above all he has frank and honest ways. He is very much missed by his many friends around the grounds, in school room and in the office.
