

INDUSTRIAL NOTES

Mr. Lansing and his force are putting up the fences around Chemawa's new barns.

The Industrial boys are kept busy these days, keeping the grass on the campus under control.

Mr. Westly and his orchard boys are harvesting and storing away for winter use, Chemawa's large apple crop.

A question for the girls to answer— "Why is it that the tailors take better care of sewing machines than the dress makers?"

The Kitchen force under the supervision of Mr. Cox, have put up several barrels of sweet tomato pickles, thus saving our green tomatoes.

All the printers are back and at their cases except Frank Coburn and Charley Harris. Word from Frank says he will be here tomorrow.

The blacksmiths in addition to ironing the Grande Ronde wagon are putting all the school wagons, hacks, farm machinery, etc, in first class condition.

The wagonmakers by following out Mr. Chalcraft's directions have improved the appearance of their shop, so that it now looks more like what it really is — a place where wagons are made.

The carpenter apprentices are very busy finishing up the boys building and doing odd jobs. A visit to this department will nearly always find Mr. Woods giving his boys some practical instruction that will be of great benefit to them. The "American" wishes to urge the carpenter boys to make the best of the opportunity that is presented to them.

ACADEMIC

The subject of the 7th grade this weeks is "Hops."

We are all glad to see Minnie Howard back again in the six grade.

The Fifth grade girls are working in the Domestic Science this week.

Silas Albert has completed a box which will hold two bushels of apples

We are having partial payments in our arithmetic in the eight grade. It is very interesting

The pupils of the A class grade eight had a lesson tuesday on why we eat and the kinds of food we should eat

The semi-monthly teachers meeting was held on Monday. It was a very interesting and instructive meeting.

The 6th grade had some arithmetic and language questions about hops, which will be our subject for next week.

Tonight we will have the pleasure of listening to the famous Salem Quartette. We have to thank Dr. Epley of Salem, who arranged this treat for us. The Doctor is a member of the Quartette.

A letter from Irene Sorter, an ex-Chemawa student states that she is taking the Commercial Course at Haskell. While Irene was here she was one of our bright students and was attaining a good reputation as a scholar.

We enjoyed the fine entertainment we had on Wednesday night. Some of the little boys could not quite understand it, but the older boys and girls were all well pleased and they want to read the books from which Mrs. Chilton made her selections.
