

COCHES

Luella Ryan is working for Mrs. Canpbell.

Mr. Goodge of Salem preached to us on Sunday night.

The Chemawa flag is getting pretty badly torn by the strong winds. We need a new flag.

Although it is near the middle of November, Chemawa still has roses in bloom on her lawn.

Clara Robison returned on Saturday from Grande Ronde, coming with Mr. Walter and wife.

Henry Nelson and Robert Evans arrived at the school on Tuesday from the Colville Reservation.

Mr. and Mrs. Schell and daughter Stella of Salem were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cox Sunday, a week ago.

The early morning Overland stopped at Chemawa on Monday morning to let off Viola Brown from Southeastern Oregon.

Delia Clark of the class of 1905 writes to the Chemawa American from Oroville, Calif. asking that the paper be sent to her at that place.

Mr. Farrow, while on his trip to Grande Ronde saw lots of quails and china pheasants, but of course he hadn't his gun with him on the trip.

We had regular Oregon weather this week. Plenty of rain. The farmers have had to suspend the plowing operations this week on account of the rain.

Gordon Hobucket arrived Sunday morning from the Neah Bay Reservation, and immediately entered the printing office as his choice of Industrial work.

The Southern Pacific repair gang has been very busy removing the ties and making general repairs in the vicinity of Chemawa's depot.

We were glad to see John Sulkey and Caroline and May Mercer, who returned to the school from Grande Ronde on Tuesday with Mr. Farrow.

We see by the last issue of Talks And Thoughts that James Smith, who is now with us in the engineering department, wrote an article on hoppicking.

Fred Lewis and his brother Clarence arrived at the school on Monday. Their father, W.H. Lewis was a member of the Chemawa graduating class of 1885, as was their mother.

Mr. James Smith who has been taking post-graduate course at Hampton, Va. returned to Chemawa on Sunday. He will take charge of our engine room. All of Mr. Smith's friends were delighted to see him.

We had a very pleasant visit from Mr. Raymond Walter and his estimable wife, who spent Sunday at the School. Mr. Walter is Chief Clerk at Grand Ronde and his wife occupies the position of seamstress there. They came over in order to take to Grand Ronde the wagon and harness, which were made in our Industrial Departments on rush orders for the Agency.

Miss Hutchinson had an applicant for the position of orderly, but before accepting him she instructed him to make himself more presentable, to pull up his stockings and wash his face and hands and otherwise make himself presentable. The young man soon returned to the office and he looked as though he had obtained a piece of sapolio, or just as good a substitute.
