Threshers are having a great deal of trouble. Fields are so soft that it is impossible to run the machines across them, and most of the roads are in the same condition. Several machines are hopelessly stalled and the work in the entire country is practically at a standstill.—Weekly Review.

We are pleased to note that Carlisle and Chilocco, as well as Haskell, were victorious in football last Saturday. Carlisle defeated Pennsylvania 24—6; Chilocco defeated Friends 28—4; Haskell defeated the K. C. "Vets" 10—4.—Indian Leader.

We see by the Indian News that the Klamath Falls Agency district is being boomed in the East. Certainly there are great opportunities for all kinds of farming and stock raising in the Klamath country.

We see by the press dispatches that Harvard defeated Carlisle Indians by a score of 5 to 0, last Saturday; that the Carlisle boys were able to hold the strong Harvard aggregation down to a single touch down, shows the strength of their team.

Our School laundry now has a large rotary washing machine regular laundry style, and it is run by artesian water power. We built a cement motor box, and made the motor wheel from an old mowing machine wheel. The water wheel whirls in its box by the door step. Inside, the shaft spins overhead and the big washing machine cylinder revolves with great slashing and foaming. The old hand power washing machine is set aside and many weary hours of arm aches and back breaking are saved by the artesian water power.—The Word Carrier.

Harold A. Loring, Supervisor of Native Indian Music has resigned his position with the government for a lucrative position with an eastern conservatory of music. His health will not permit of the roughing necessary to get the best results in that position.—The Indian News.

James Smith, a former student of Chemawa and Hampton, visited Haskell last Monday.—Indian Leader.

Miss Reel says: "The employe who has a dislike for the work he is doing and for the Indian should resign and get into something that he likes."—Indian News
