

INDUSTRIAL NOTES

Irene Peone is working in the mess and likes her work.

William Beach and Levi Sortor made a sink for the kitchen.

The wagon shop boys have a heavy wagon ready for the blacksmiths.

The carpenters have started to work on the sidewalk leading to the car line.

Some of the girls would like to know what the tailor boys mean by "full English" trousers.

Mr. Cooper has recovered from his late illness and has taken his place as dairyman again.

The party given by the sewing room girls was a great success and everyone enjoyed themselves.

The wagon shop boys have about completed the arranging of the stock wheels, hard wood, etc., in the shop.

Fred Irving made himself a nice pair of trousers. The style was full English, which is getting to be the latest style in Chemawa.

Sewing room: Hurry up girls, there are more new girls coming and Mrs. Theisz says they only have the dresses they are wearing.

Mr. Woods showed his boys some English money last week, and told them the value of the money compared with United States money.

Judging by the butcher knives brought to the wagon shop to have handles put on them, those thanksgiving turkeys will be defated 10 to 1.

Our dressmaking department is very successful this winter. Miss Brown and Miss Skipton manage the work and instruct the girls in the most capable manner.

Some of our girls are making very pretty clothes for themselves. One of our girls made a beautiful rain coat that could not be surpassed by the best dress-makers.

The sewing room girls will be glad when Thanksgiving is over. It means a rush order of waiter aprons for the Dining Hall and the gray Uniforms feel a little slighted.

We were all very sorry to have Mr. Moran, who acted as temporary engineer leave us. He is a fine engineer and electrician and handled his work and his boys in the very best manner. We wish Mr. Moran success in his new work.

An evening was pleasantly spent in the sewing room on Saturday by the girls of that department. The entertainment consisted of recitations and songs, while several performed on the violin and mandolin, making merriment and jolity for all; after which refreshments were served: the lights went out, and the girls retired for sweet dreams and calm repose.
