ELSEWHERE IN THE SERVICE

Robert Lewis of the class of '05 has been working as compositor in the Republican Gazette, and other offices of Phoenix lately, making $3 a day.—Native American.

The Native American says that the flesh of the Navaho sheep resembles that of the antelope rather than that of the eastern sheep, and if once introduced among epicures it would soon be as much in demand as the famous Navaho blanket.—Indian Friend.

Miss Breece had been sent by the Government to establish a new school at the reindeer station near Hiamna, but, after many hardships, she found someone had blundered for there are no children within many miles of the proposed location. She was then appointed to Uiga and was on her way there but we persuaded her to stay and teach the Longwood school.—Orphanage.

"Why didn't I get my Leader last week?" is the question asked by many subscribers. The first and fourth pages were in type when the good news came that the printers could move. So we packed up and such a "moving" time as we had. Of course the Leader had to take a vacation of one week. Please excuse its non-appearance. We are now located in the school building just opposite the library in a freshly painted, newly kalsomined, pleasant room, and with best of all a new electric motor. The small room at the head of the stairs is to be used for stock, editorial room, etc. Call and see us and don't forget to subscribe for the Leader.—Indian Leader.

The bill of fare included roast turkey with gravy and mashed potatoes, pickles, green apple sauce, pie, cake, orange, dates, raisins, walnuts, and pinons. It required 750 pounds of turkey, raised by the McDowell Indians, 1,600 sweet Arizona oranges, two barrels of Kansas apples, 120 pounds of Arizona pinons and 100 pounds of California English walnuts. After the plates had been replenished a sufficient number of times to satisfy even the football boys adjournment was taken, and finally some of the boys and girls showed sufficient life to engage in tennis and basketball.—Native American.
