

ACADEMIC

Ella Brewer who has been promoted to the eighth A is doing nicely in her studies.

The girls who entered the sixth grade from Miss Johnson's grade are doing nicely.—M. H.

Pedro Cayago who has recently entered the printing office is getting along fine with his work.—J. M.

We are all glad to see our friend Edward Williams back to school again. He says he is glad also to continue his studies again.—T. P.

When the boys and girls march to school, they keep good order now. They don't talk when passing to their school rooms any more.—P. S.

Webster Hudson entered the eighth grade B class Monday morning, and is doing well in his studies. If any more promotions are made from the seventh grade we may have to hang them up on the wall. This means that the pupils are digging right down to their studies this year.—B. W.

Girls' Band of Mercy

The Little Girls Band of Mercy had a very interesting meeting last evening. Many of the little girls told how they had tried to treat everyone kindly since last meeting.

Boys' Band of Mercy

The Boys' Band of Mercy met in its usual place Wednesday evening. A program consisting of anecdotes about animals was rendered.

ATHLETIC

The basketball girls are very much pleased with their new red caps they received from Mr. Farrow.

The girls' second team basketball is going to play Salem High School first team sometime this week.—E. M.

Our girls are receiving compliments on all sides in regard to their excellent playing and excellent conduct while playing basketball.

The girls' basketball team met and were defeated by the Corvallis girls. The score was 12—11 in favor of Corvallis. It was a fast but clean game.

The girls' basketball team wish to extend their thanks to the young ladies of the Oregon Agricultural College for their kind treatment to them during their stay in Corvallis.
