The Jollying Hunch

When you meet with a fellow who's down in the dumps,

Just jolly him up a little.

'Twill be an incentive to stir up his stumps,

If you'll jolly him up a little.

A pat on the back and a shake of the hand

Costs nothing whatever to you, understand,

And maybe 'twill stock up his nerve and his hand,

If you'll jolly him up a little.

Don't scoff at the fellow who tells you his woe,

But jolly him up a little.

Surprising it is how his courage will grow,

If you'll jolly him up a little.

A cheery "Hang on; you will get there, old man,"

Will clear up a sky which the somber clouds span.

If you want to assist such a fellow, you can,--Just jolly him up a little.

What obstacles all of us easily climb

By being jollied a little.

We're ready to tackle tough jobs every time,

If first we're jollied a little.

So echo your cheery, glad messages today,

Where hearts all discouraged and purposefully stray,

For nothing will lighten the darkest pathway,

Like being jollied a little.

Y. W. C. A.

The Y. W. C. A. met in the usual place. After singing a few songs and having the opening prayer, the roll was called each girl responded with a scripture from the Bible. They then sang another song followed by a few minutes talk from quite a number of the members. It was a very interesting meeting as the girls spoke on the good of the Y. W. C. A. which showed great improvement. They sang another song and repeated the Watchword and adjourned.

Sunbeams.

The Sunbeams had a very interesting meeting, in fact the best they had since organizing. They had a rally meeting each girl repeating her favorite bible verse and talking on it afterwards, each one had plenty to say on it and lots more than usual took part in the season of prayer. Anna Miller of the Y. W. C. A. led the Sunbeams.
