

INDUSTRIAL NOTES

The gardeners are busy plowing around the fruit trees.

There are fourteen boys working in the paint shop.

The girls of the sewing room are busy making dresses for the new girls.

Rhoda Silverton is working in the sewing room and she is doing well.

Paul Dirks is making a fine piece of inlaid work for Tracy Hatch of Salem.

David Risling is making forge. He is doing very well, and is a good worker.

The carpenters have twenty ladders, and twenty jacks ready for the painters' use.

The sewing room girls are now making the McBride and girls' spring uniforms.

Albert Garry is getting to be a good hand at patching bedfows in the blacksmith shop.

Mr. Farrow and his force of boys did a fine job on the rose bushes in front of the harness shop last Friday.

Fred Dick who had been in the hospital is now out and able to resume his work in the tailor shop.—M. H.

All the roofs of the buildings will soon be painted red and after they are finished the sides will be painted white.

The cry among the pupils now a days, is the coming examination, we all seem to fear it. Why? So it because we are afraid we will not pass, or is it because we are afraid to show what we don't know?—J. S.

The painters are getting right down to business, they will soon start painting some of the roofs on the grounds.—T. J.

The girls in the sewing room are making the summer uniforms which are to be blue, and they will look very pretty after finished.—V. B.

Frank S. rahan put in an order some time ago for a set of heavy work harness. His brother Elmer is an apprentice in the shop and he will make the harness in the best way he knows how. He has finished some parts of it already and it looks very neat.

The tailors and harness makers gave a reception on hursday evening in the auditorium. All sorts of games were played and other amusements were enjoyed until a rather late hour when bounteous refreshments were served. A very pleasant evening was spent by those present and all guests join hands in praising the ones who planned such a pleasant time.

ACADEMIC

The Chemawa second basket-ball team are going to play the Mute school next Saturday on the Mute Floor.—G. B.

Clarence Lewis of the 7th grade is a wonderful little arithmetician. He can do any example you give him to do, and he is only 14 years old.

The eighth grade A class made some butter last Wednesday morning at the dairy house. They turned out pretty good but nevertheless it was the first time for all of them.

The 7th grade is working hard at practical measurements. Nearly all of them can now take the dimensions of a room and find out the cost of plastering, painting or kalsomining.
