

PUPILS' ITEMS

Mrs. Newcomb is the mess manager for the month of April.

Miss Miller's dog is always hunting mice in the school room.

Dora Gray is making a beautiful white dress for Margery.

Mr. Webber of Salem entertained the students of this school in the chapel Monday night.

The kitchen boys gave a very nice party on Thursday, and everybody enjoyed themselves.—D. D.

A number of employees went up to Salem for the Easter Services last Sunday morning and afternoon.

The public debate between the Excelsiors and Nonpareils Friday was very exciting and was enjoyed by all. The points brought out were about even on both sides so through courtesy to the young ladies, the judges decided in favor of the affirmative.

Miss Cecilia Wessela of Gardiner Ore., who is a subscriber of the Chemawa American writes to a friend in Chemawa saying that the American is a very interesting paper.—A. M.

Earnest David has returned to the laundry after an absence of two weeks in the hospital. The laundry force missed his help and they were glad to have him back again.

The entertainment given Saturday night by Miss Emily Squier was a rare treat for the pupils. Miss Squier altho being a very small girl is well up in the entertainment line and gave a most excellent entertainment which all enjoyed very much.—C. D.

Ellen Ferris took her first lesson in making and using starch on Monday, and her work was very satisfactory.

Thomas Downie, an ex-pupil, visited the Brewers the first part part of the week. He left for Walla Walla, where he will receive $150 a month for the season.

In the evening service on Easter Mr. Goudge gave an impressive Easter sermon. The school sang two appropriate hymns and the choir sang an Easter anthem.

A few of the girls were fortunate enough to receive invitations to an afternoon tea to be given by the printing force at three thirty Monday afternoon but on account of it being the first of the month, many other duties compelled them to merely send their regrets.—E. B.

We understand that some of the girls of McBride devote a great deal of their leisure time reading novels, and they also memorize different phrases of the stories until they imagine themselves the heroines they read about. Why don't you get down to earth.—J. J. S.
