

LOCALS

Joe Dillstrom went out news hunting Tuesday afternoon.

Fortunato Jayme assisted in the printing office yesterday.

Some of the Chemawaites are collecting rose petals for pillows.

Helen and Phyllis Fairfield were admitted yesterday from the North.

Joe Brignone came just in time to play short stop in the game with The Dalles team.

Miss Backofen, a former nurse of this school, now at Denver, Col. sent Walter Haight a good-luck pin.

Mr. Roy A. McDowell student of Willamette University is employed as night watchman temporarily.

Clarence Cooper entertained a few friends Wednesday evening, the occasion being his thirteenth birthday.

Bob Cameron printed the official badges for use at the field-meet, and Webster Hudson printed the tickets. Both did neat work.

The printers missed John McCush very much this week. He is in the hospital, but will soon be back in the mailing room.

Mrs. Cloutier took her 8th Grade boys to Old Chemawa and cleaned it from papers, tin cans and other unsightly things on Friday afternoon.

Subscribe for the "Chemawa American". Only one-half cent a week, you will not miss that amount much, and you will get a real "news" paper.

We are pleased to hear that Mr. Jones passenger agent of the S. P. and a good friend of Chemawa, is recovering from a severe illness which has kept him in a Portland hospital for some time.

Misses Lalor, Postley and Campbell and Messrs. Larsen and Brewer attended the play "Madame DuBarry" by Mrs. Leslie Carter.

Mrs. Campbell, Brewer Woods, Teabo and Misses, Miller, Brown, Luedke and Johnston escorted the young ladies to to the field-meet with Willamette on Wednesday.

On account of sickness at home, Mrs. Bewley left on Tuesday evening to be gone for several days. The mess certainly misses her pleasant face and other good things.

Miss Lalor was in Salem Tuesday afternoon searching for a cook. As she was unable to get one, she flipped the hot cakes for breakfast the next morning. The employes survived however.

Fortunato Jayme, who has been attending Willamette University the last year, has been exempted from the final examination, having received excellent ratings during the entire year.

Decoration Day was observed as a holiday. Appropriate services were held in the school chapel. The pupils then marched to the cemetery, headed by the band playing Chopin's Funeral March. Every pupil carried bunches of roses and other flowers. The large flag was filled with roses and carried by Henry Dillstrom, Orin French, Philip and Elmer Sorahan. The graves were beautifully and lavishly decorated.